MAIN HIGHWAY TRAFFIC JAMS BUSINESS AREA

Survey For Expressway Shows Nearly Half of Cars Don't Stop in City.

(Editor's Note: This is the third of a series of articles on Mansfield's traffic and highway problems.)

By PHILIP GREENE

The volume of Mansfield's vehicular traffic in 1941, last full year prior to war-time curtailment of driving, reached the amazing total of 33,952 vehicles entering and leaving the city each 24 hours.

That is shown in the report of Meredith P. Lichtenwalter, Ashland engineer who designed the state highway department's plans for a $15,000,000 expressway relocation of U. S. Route 42 through Mansfield and north and south of the city.

Of the nearly 34,000 vehicles that entered and left the city, about 14,000, or 40 per cent, went through without stopping, it is estimated.

Another breakdown of the total figure shows that a maximum of 16,922 vehicles were driven around Central park, one way only, each day. Still another section of the report shows that 17 main streets carried from 5,000 to 16,922 vehicles each day.

Eases Downtown Traffic.

These figures are only part of the traffic count reported in support of the plan for constructing the expressway. The super-highway would drain from the central business section from 13,333 to 16,567 vehicles per day between Wayne and Bowman streets and up to 10,000 from streets eastward and westward, respectively.

During an entire day more than 49,450 autos, trucks and buses traveled the streets and highways in the eastern half of the city, or east of Main street. Of the 49,450, 13,867 entered (or left) the city, the rest, or 35,583, having origins within the city. The peak hour of the day saw 4,451 vehicles moving in the eastern half of the city.

Similar counts were made for the northern, western and southern parts of the city. West of Main streets the figures are even more impressive. There, 55,399 vehicles moved daily, 10,696 of them entering or leaving the city and 44,703 having purely local origins and destinations. The peak hour totaled 4,986 vehicles.

* * *

North-South Travel Heavy.

Total north and south traffic, north of Park avenue, amounted to 42,670 vehicles daily, 32,864 having local destinations and origins and 9,806 entering or leaving the city. Some 3,840 vehicles were moving during the rush hour.

South of Park avenue the total volume was 29,682 vehicles, of which 8,602 entered or left the city

CHAMBER ASKS 1,000 TO DINE

Biggest Annual Meeting Set For Feb. 14; Noted Pastor to Speak.

The Mansfield Chamber of Commerce and Manufacturers' club today invited 1,000 members and guests to their annual dinner meeting Feb. 14 in the Coliseum and announced that Rev Norman Vincent Peale, D D., of New York, noted lecturer and author, would be the principal speaker.

Since the meetings of the two organizations will be combined this year, the crowd is expected to be the largest in the history of the groups That's why the dinner will be in the Coliseum

Rev. Peale, a native Ohioan, is the author of two books, "The Art of Living" and "You Can Win." He is to be co-author with a psychiatrist of a third book, "Faith is the Answer." His C. of C. meeting topic will be "The Art of Living."

John G. Routzon, C. of C. secretary-manager, said other entertainment, in addition to Rev. Peale's address, is being planned. The C. of C's president for the year will be announced at the meeting.

He said that because there will be adequate space this year, members are urged to bring their wives, friends and business associates.

Rev. Peale, a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan university, has been pastor of Marble Collegiate church, New York, since 1932.

For eight years he has appeared on the radio program known as "The Art of Living."

NO GAS RATE CUT IN SIGHT

An official of the Ohio Fuel Gas company said today its consumers would receive none of the $452,000 which the Federal Power commission has ordered United Fuel Gas company to rebate to Ohio Fuel.

E. M. Tharp, general manager of Ohio Fuel, was quoted by the Associated Press in Columbus as stating that the rebate "only equalizes what we have been paying (to United) as against what we have been charging (to consumers.)"

Earlier, G K. Schooler, manager of the Mansfield branch office of the company, had termed possibility of a rate reduction "unlikely."

Ohio Fuel had been paying United a rate of about 26 cents per 1,000 cubic feet, Tharp said. The FPC fixed the rate at 23 cents and ordered a rebate on that basis.

Mark Downs Are Coming Up, Ladies!

NEW YORK—(INS)—Ladies, on your marks, get set, go!

That once stable fixture of American life and economy, the bargain basement sale, will once more make a general appearance throughout the nation in 1947 after being under wraps throughout the war years.

Merchants now attending the 36th annual convention of the National Retail Dry Goods association at the Pennsylvania hotel say "mark-downs" or bargain sales will again be good merchandising policy as more and more goods flood the market in 1947.

But no gouging or kneeling, ladies, pul-lese!

SCHOOL YOUTHS ADMIT MURDER

YOUNGSTOWN—(AP)—Sheriff Ralph Elser announced today two Youngstown South high school students had confessed the slaying of William S. Spieth, 52-year-old Ashtabula salesman who was found shot and beaten to death in his automobile near here.

The sheriff said the youths, one 17 and the other 18 years of age, admitted that robbery was their motive. Sheriff Elser said he would confer with the Mahoning county prosecutor before filing murder charges

The boys were arrested on a country road a quarter of a mile away several hours after Stan Miller, Ohio Greyhound bus driver, found Spieth lying beside his car yesterday.

Miller said he saw an automobile coming down the road near Cornersburg on U. S. Route 62 and noticed a man inside waving his arms. Suspecting foul play, he pulled his bus across the road to halt the car.

As Miller and a passenger alighted, two youths believed by police to have been hitch-hikers jumped from the automobile and ran across a field.

Spieth, who tumbled out as the boys fled, was rushed to a hospital here, but was dead on arrival. Coroner David Belinsky said death was caused by two bullet wounds on the back and a severe beating about the head.

BRIDGE EXPERT DIES

LARGO, Fla.—(AP)—William E Talcott, 84, retired attorney, railroad executive and authority on contract and auction bridge, died yesterday at Orange Grove Manor, a nursing home, following a brief illness. Born at Jefferson, Ohio, Talcott had been spending his winters in Florida for 31 years.

Majors, Cleckner 'Most Valuable'; M'Millin Stars at N-J Grid Dinner

By W. C. PETERSON

(News-Journal Managing Editor)

By choice of their teammates, Ralph Majors of Senior high school and Jack Cleckner of Madison high are the "most valuable" players of the Mansfield scholastic football world.

Announcement of their selections came as one of the highlights of the 11th annual News-Journal football banquet last night in North Lake Park coliseum.

A crowd of approximately 500 persons cheered loudly when Herb Smith, president of the Tyger Booster club, read the inscriptions on the large "most valuable" player trophies and called on Cleckner and Majors to accept the awards.

* * *

IT WAS UNQUESTIONABLY the greatest gathering of sports enthusiasts ever to attend a banquet honoring football players of the two Mansfield schools.

From the time that the toastmaster, R. J. Alander, general manager of the News-Journal, called on the guests to take seats at the eight long dinner tables, until long after the principal speaker, "Bo" McMillin, Indiana coach, "blew" the whistle on the last play of the technicolor movie of the Nebraska-Indiana game, the hundreds of guests appeared to revel in the festivities.

* * *

"BO" ENTERED wholeheartedly into the spirit of the occasion.

He had put on his overcoat, prepared to leave, when the first of the guests approached him for a request for his autograph on a copy of a "Football Banquet Extra" of the News-Journal that had been distributed earlier in the evening.

As another and then another football fan asked for his autograph, "Bo" quickly shed his overcoat and went to work. For the better part of an hour, he shook hands with oldsters and youngsters and signed hundreds of copies of the News-Jornal "extra."

* * *

THE "EXTRA" had ben brought into the huge column just after "Bo" concluded anddress of wisdom and wit thathad kept high school players, tir fellow students, junior high youngsters, and parents and friendalternating between laughter ind serious response to "Bo's" hoely philosophy.

The "extra" carried in ige headlines the word, "Majors, Cleckner Picked Most Valuable Players." The "most valuable" player awards had been made before McMillin's talk.

On the front page of the "extra" appeared a picture of Fred Tharp, News-Journal sports editor and general manager of the banquet, introducing McMillin as Smith stood by. The picture had been posed an hour earlier before the assembled banquet guests and 'Seconds' Offered Banquet Guests.

Words of praise galore were uttered by guests at the 11th annual News-Journal banquet for the splendid meal served by Ed Sutter and Bob Hayes.

The food was placed before the guests steaming hot from Westinghouse ovens. There were "seconds" for those who wanted them, and most of the football players did.

F. H. CAMPAIGN $7,886 SHORT; ONE DAY TO GO

Confidence that the $60,000 building fund drive for the new Friendly House will go over the top was expressed today by Paul W. Endriss, campaign chairman.

The total contributions today stood at $52,114, an increase of approximately $2,000 from Monday.

"We may have to carry out a clean-up campaign to gather in the loose ends for a few days following the official closing date tomorrow," he commented

Top contributor yesterway was the Ohio Public Service company with $669.

A final report of the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company showed total contributions there of $8,853. The fund raising campaign at the rubber company was conducted jointly by the company and union Local 17 United Rubber Workers.

Other leading contributors yesterday were: the Marine Veterans Club, $300; Daughters of Ruth class of the St. Lukes church, $50, Musicians Protective association, $50; Mansfield Postal employees, $101; Women's society of Christian Service of the First Methodist church, $25.

Goldsmith Clothing store, $100, Rogers and company store, $50; Milady Beauty shop, $25; Mansfield Plate Glass company, $25; Shelley Candy company $25; Council of the Grace Episcopal church women, $25; Leisey Roofing company $25

Steinle-Wolfe Inc of Fremont, contracting firm now on construction work at the Mansfield Tire $100, and the Stevens Manufacturing company, $25.

Small Ad Hides Story Of Tragedy For Widow

LOST—Ladies black leather purse in the vicinity of 3rd avenue, Sunday morning. Would like to have contents if not the money Urgently needed by Thursday. Call 91-3 if no answer call 4568-6.

Behind this classified advertisement that appeared in Monday's News-Journal lay a story of tragedy—of a cloud that threatens to mar the happiness of a forthcoming wedding.

Mrs. Helen Wildeman, 137 Buckingham street, widowed mother of three small children, related the details today

Saturday night, Mrs. Wildeman was visiting at the home of her mother, Mrs. John Tesch on Third avenue. As she backed her car out of the driveway about midnight, she opened the door to see where she was going

Later she discoverd that her purse was missing She guessed that it had dropped onto the running board and fallen into the street as she was driven home

* * *

IN THAT PURSE, Mrs Wildeman carried $75 in cash, her wedding and engagement rings, her ration books, and mementoes of her late husband, Elmer, who was killed in Italy during World War II.

The purse also contained the wedding ring that had been purchased for the marriage ceremony scheduled for Thursday when she plans to become the wife of Fred Ethel

The $75 was all of her government allowance except $4. She had planned to use part of the money to complete her wardrobe for her second marriage the rest was to go to purchase articles needed by her three children—John, Rosemary and Sandra.

* * *

MRS. WILDEMAN, saddened by the loss, offered a reward for the return of the purse She needs the cash, but especially she hopes to obtain the return of the mementoes of her first husband so they may be given to her children.

And then there's the matter of the new wedding ring

POLISH COURT SENTENCES 3

WARSAW—(INS)—Count Xavier Grocholski and two of his three fellow defendants were sentenced to death today by a Warsaw military court, upon their conviction of spying in behalf of foreign power

During the trial, it was charged that British Ambassador Victor Cavendish-Bentinck obtained state and military secrets through the efforts of Grocholski and his colleagues

Grocholski was said to have acted as intermediary between the British ambassador and other underground members

The prosecution had asked the death penalty for the count as well as Waldemar Baczak, former foreign ministry employe, and Capt. Witold Kalicki, medical officer in the government guards.

Fourth defendant was 22-year-old Cristina Kosiorek, but the death penalty was not asked for the girl as she was termed a spy only in a technical sense.

RUSSIANS TURN EYES TO PEACE, STATES WRITER

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW—(AP)—Signs of demobilization can be seen almost daily in Moscow. Since a large part of Russia's transport moves through or into the capital, this is a good place to get an idea of troop movements.

Troops arrive almost daily from the west They seem to be of many age groups When interviewed they talk freely of going home, back to factory or farm. They speak of other soldiers from their areas who are to come shortly. They also speak of being anxious to get back into peacetime work and to help with the coming spring sowing or getting good industrial jobs under the new five-year plan.

Living in Moscow it is difficult to escape an impression of a general desire to adjust the entire Soviet system to a full peacetime production, with as few men in the army as possible.

There are no recruiting campaigns going on at present. The emphasis is on peacetime life

This writer knows of no time in the last five and a half years (the period of his residence in Moscow) when there have been:

So few men in uniform on the streets of cities of the Soviet union,

So little talk about the possibilities of war;

So much talk about a permanent peace;

So much talk about collaboration between the Soviet Union and its allies of the war

Crops were not good last year because of drought. There is still suffering here.

FEARING POVERTY, MAN FORCES SELF, 2 SISTERS, TO GROVEL UNDER ITS HARDSHIPS FOR LIFETIME

NEW YORK—(UP)—The grip that Charles Edwards kept on his sisters for 57 years was broken today.

Edwards, 77, a seemingly mild-mannered little man with a scraggly white goatee, was dead

One sister, Anna Edwards, 67, was under treatment in Kings County hospital for malnutrition. Police found her, slowly starving to death on a diet of bread and water, unaware that her brother was probably worth $150,000.

Another sister, Delia Edwards, 63, who played on the sympathy of neighbors to supplement the $9 a month he allowed for food for three of them, was in Bellevue hospital for observation.

Police, with an assortment of keys, some of which apparently were for safety deposit boxes, looked for additional wealth as they pieced together the story of the iron-willed brother and his two sisters.

For years the Edwards had looked and acted as though they never had a dollar to their name. It was part of Edwards' plan.

He assumed the responsibility for his sisters when a young man. He chose their friends. He took care of their money. He told them he was determined that they should never find themselves penniless as their parents sometimes had been

Yesterday, Miss Delia Edwards crept down three flights of stairs and asked Mrs Mary Bennett, a neighbor, for a cup of hot coffee.

"How's your brother?" asked Mrs. Bennett.

"He hasn't moved since Saturday," said Miss Edwards

Father Charles Bernel from St. Paul's church found in the front bedroom of the dark, sooty apartment Edwards' body, withered to 80 pounds, kneeling beside a cot, left arm on the mattress, right hand against the floor

In another bedroom, was Miss Anna Edwards, cheeks withered, blue eyes shrunken, too weak to stand

Police found 14 bank books showing $75,000 in deposits. Among dust covered papers they found mortgages, stocks, bonds and other securities worth another $75,000, and several keys.

Since Edwards quit work three years ago as a janitor he had forced the family to live on $36 a month, $24 social security payment and $12 pension. The rent went up from $17 to $24 a month. He trimmed the allowance for food accordingly.

In 19 years that they had lived at their present address, the apartment had never been heated.

The sisters of the man who was afraid of being poor said they had never known anything but poverty.

'Greater Mansfield Days' Set

Mansfield's first city-wide merchants' sale since before World War II will be held Feb. 7 and 8, the Mansfield Retail Merchants association announced today.

W. L. Faulkner, president of the association, said the cooperative sale has been named "Greater Mansfield Days"

Shoppers from the north central Ohio area, of which Mansfield is the center, will be invited to shop here. The News-Journal will publish a special edition to promote the event.

All merchants in Mansfield have been asked to plan special sales during the two days, Faulkner said

POLICE ARREST SPEEDER A DAY

Boals Makes Good on Promise To Cut Traffic Violations In Mansfield.

Traffic Commissioner Frend C. Boals is making good his promise to increase law enforcement in order to improve the city's traffic accident record.

In the past three days as many persons have been arrested for speeding as were arrested for the same offense in all of December.

More than a speeder a day has been booked during the first 14 days of 1947 to double the total for all of December and top the November total by one.

But it isn't only speeders that are scheduled for attention, Boals said. "All moving violations will be watched and we're going to concentrate on drivers who ignore stop signs.

Must Stop at Signs.

"Those so-called 'rolling stops' are out," he declared. Drivers are going to learn to come to a full stop."

The commissioner asserted that the traffic campaign "isn't going to die out in a week." He said it's going to be a year-round drive."

He added, however, that "this is not a drive to see how many arrests we can make—we want to LICK accidents. As long as accidents are up, arrests will be up," he declared.

Boals said that the drive will be conducted under a "selective enforcement" system. Arrests are to be based on the number of accidents and where they occur," he said.

"Most arrests will be at spots where maps show most accidents happen," he said. Each traffic patrolman has been assigned specific danger spots and instructed to concentrate "on specific violations" the commissioner said.

Educates Drivers.

Boals described the first phases of the drive as an educational campaign. "We want people to learn good driving habits, but we don't expect them to learn them in a week. That's why the drive will be a long one," he said.

Boals warned drivers that speed on all but main thoroughfares is limited to 25 miles an hour. He said that main routes are state or federal highways and on these the speed limit is 35 miles an hour in the city.

In an effort to cut down the number of accidents involving child pedestrians and bicycle riders, Boals said that he's launching a personal instruction campaign in city schools It begins tomorrow at Hedges school. A total of 56 child pedestrians and bicyclists were injured by autos last year, Boals said.

PEACE TREATY PARLEY OPENS

LONDON—(INS)—Deputies of the Big Four foreign ministers' council gathered today in London to open formal discussions preliminary to the drafting of peace treaties for Germany and Austria.

Meeting in Lancaster House, the representatives of the United States, Britain, France and Soviet Russia got down to work on the treaty to be presented to the Germans some 20 months after the Nazis were beaten into submission by the Allied war machine.

Final decisions on the future of Germany and Austria will be made when the Big Four foreign ministers meet next March in Moscow.

Duties of the deputies will be mainly to hear the views of some 18 smaller powers, itemize the facts gathered since the war regarding Germany's return to the family of nations and to establish an agenda for the Moscow meeting.

USE OF TROOPS IN FOOD TIEUP IRKS WORKERS

Government Efforts To Reach Agreement With Truckers Fails to End Walkouts.

LONDON—(INS)—Sympathy strikes spread rapidly today across southern England coincident with the arrival of 2,000 more British troops in London to move vital foodstuffs tied up by the illegal truckers' work stoppage.

In six communities, truckmen struck in sympathy, while 1,500 Thames dockmen and stevedores decided to join the strike until such time as the troops are withdrawn. Only six men voted against the strike.

This brought to about 10,000 the number of dockers estimated to be out in the London area, and 16,000 others in the Liverpool district are expected to join the walkout later in the day.

Meantime, the ministry of labor announced agreement has been reached on formation of a national joint-industrial council for road haulage. The council will meet immediately after resumption of work.

Situation Darkens.

Last night, union and employer representatives had agreed to meet to plan a voluntary wage board with jurisdiction over the trucking strike.

Despite hopes that the solution proposed last night would settle the problem, the situation in the provinces was deteriorating.

The threat of a general strike still hovered over the country, and officials watched apprehensively as reports of small new provincial walkouts continued to reach London.

Emphasizing the seriousness of the situation, these reports came in throughout the day. A total walkout in Birmingham was predicted for tomorrow, unless this evening's meeting of union chiefs is able to placate the men.

The strikes began to spread yesterday when the government used troops to move perishable foods needed by greater London's ten million citizens.

Hope that the strike was nearing an end increased somewhat when the strikers' central committee announced it would meet union officials tomorrow. The original strike by 23,000 truckmen—which mushroomed amazingly when the troops were called out—had been termed illegal by union officials.

The government billeted the newly-arrived troops on the famed Clapham common of South London, which has been transformed into military encampment.

GOP SUPPORTS ECONOMY PLAN

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Leaders of the predominantly Republican general assembly today pledged support to newly-inaugurated Gov. Thomas J. Herbert's "rigid economy" program.

Herbert called for an overhauling of the state tax system to reduce levies, and for a slash in the all-time high state payroll of 25,000 employes in yesterday's inaugural address.

He also insisted on teamwork in labor-management relations, increased aid for public education, assistance for war veterans, more rural and trunk-line highway construction, and a start on the welfare building program delayed by the war

Sen. Frank E. Whittemore, senate majority leader, said a number of measures designed to facilitate the new governor's program had been drafted and that some of them probably would be introduced in the upper chamber this afternoon.

The senate, he added, might remain at work tomorrow to help get the program going.

The house of representatives, however, planned to mark time until next Monday when Herbert will detail his recommendations in his first message to the legislature.

The legislative flood gates then will be lowered and the business of lawmaking move ahead amid hope in some quarters that the regular working session will be shorter than two years ago when it lasted into late June.

Lt. Gov. Paul M. Herbert, sworn in yesterday to preside over the senate, said the legislature should get its work done by May 1.

"It would make for greater faith of the people in preresentative government," said the lieutenant governor who started a fourth term in that office.

Veteran legislators said, however, that the work of dealing with peacetime governmental problems might keep them in session longer.

THE ARTFUL RUNNER

Reddy is keen of wit and if you ever have seen him run you know that he is quick of feet. The proof that he is both is the fact that he never has been caught, and Peter Rabbit and Danny Meadow Mouse will tell you that in the game of life he is hard to beat. There is no one for whom they have to watch so constantly as Reddy Fox.

Just now he wasn't hunting but was being hunted. Yes, sir, he was being hunted. He was running for his life. Behind him two Dogs called Hounds were telling all who might listen that they were chasing Reddy Fox and meant to catch him unless their master should shoot him first. Reddy had need of his keen wits and quick feet. He was running for his life.

He needn't have been. No, sir, he needn't have been running for his life. Only a short time before he had been safe from those Dogs and that hunter. He could have remained so, and would have had he been one of those who think only of themselves. It was Mrs. Reddy whose trail those Dogs had found. They had chased her until she was so tired she was almost ready to drop. Then Reddy deliberately interfered, fooling those Dogs into following him. It was an old trick. He had helped Mrs. Reddy with it more than once before, and she had done the same thing for him when he had been hard pressed by Dogs.

Of course Reddy couldn't know that a hunter with a dreadful gun, perhaps more than one, waited somewhere for those Dogs to drive him near enough to be shot, but he guessed that it was so, and he never once forgot it. Not only must he get rid of those Dogs, but he must be constantly watching for a hidden hunter. He must run so as to avoid those places where a hunter was likely to be.

In a way it was a sort of guessing match between Reddy and the hunter, each trying to outguess the other. The prize was Reddy's fur coat and his life. Folks of all kinds, girls and boys and grown-up, the furred and feathered folk of the Green Forest and the Green Meadows, form habits. They do some things always in the same ways. In traveling about Foxes and Rabbits and Deer and other folks in fur are likely to go places the same way every time. So they make faint paths. Foxes that are being chased by Dogs usually use these familiar little paths. It is just because they are familiar and this makes running easier.

The master of the two Dogs knew all these fox "runs" as they are called. He had hidden near one to wait for the Fox to be driven his way. You see he knew that habit of most Foxes. He had been observing. What he didn't know was that Reddy Fox had been just as observing. Every fall and winter when his fur was thick and fine hunters with their Dogs had tried to get that red coat of his. It hadn't taken him long to discover this habit of the hunters of waiting with dreadful guns at certain places along familiar runs. Ever since then he had fooled the hunters by not using the runs at all, or only those parts where there was no chance for a hunter to hide near enough to shoot.

So now Reddy was artfully keeping away from those places where he might be expected to run. Running wasn't as easy this way, but he didn't have to be so watchful for the hunter. There was one place he could go where he would be safe from the hunter, but not from the Dogs. It was Farmer Brown's farm. No shooting was allowed there. Who had told Reddy? No one. How did he know it? Through observation, using his eyes with understanding. Long ago he had noticed that hunters with dreadful guns never went on Farmer Brown's land but ayways stopped at the edge of it. Of course he never had heard the word "sanctuary," but he knew the meaning of it—a place of safety. He and Mrs. Reddy had found it out for themselves. That is why they had made their home in the Old Pasture. It was part of that farm. They knew they would be safe there.

But though on that land he would be safe from hunters, those Dogs would follow him there, and he didn't want them near home. So he kept away from there and at the same time artfully kept away from that hidden hunter without knowing exactly where he was. As he ran he tried to think of some new trick to fool those Dogs. He must get rid of them.

Miss Midnight's Diary — Sunday: To the Stork Club of all places on a Sabbath noonday, to match up with cafe society's latest matutinal diversion, the "rumba breakfast"—which I am happy to report, is a pleasant institution most likely to succeed. Smiling, snowy-haired Jimmy, the major domo of the festival bowl, handed eggnogs to all the guests as they came through the door, and the main room of the cafe wore a positively "family" look, with mothers and fathers and debutante daughters occupying ringside tables, and Princeton boys dancing with their dates, and even a trio of little boys of nursery school age quietly eating scrambled eggs in a corner.

I observed two things about the younger set: debutantes once again are going hatless, and Princeton boys still prefer their hair cut considerably shorter than matinee-idol length.

Billy Riordan, the one perosn permitted by Sherman Billingsley to table hop in the Stork Club, lighted opposite us long enough to report that Claude Graham-White, the famous British aviator, is in town, that the era of tossing money about like confetti seems to be over, or at least in recess, and that by not reporting in at the Cub Room the night before I had missed what I regard as the week's most entrancing "impossible interview"—a palsy duet composed of England's Anthony Eden and Hollywood's Sam Goldwyn. Billy said one observer wondered, "Do you suppose Eden wants to go into the movies?" and another replied: "No, but maybe Sam wants to go into politics."

Strolling up Madison ave. afterward, we bumped into Moss Hart and bride Kitty Carlisle, and were lured into Hamburger Heaven for a cupacawfee and chitchat. Stylish Moss was wearing a turtle-necked sweater, a la Clark Gable circa 1933, and carrying among other gold impediments, a solid 14-carat tobacco box, initialed "M. M." in giant gold letters, which was Kitty's Christmas present to him and which fortunately was on his person during the Harts' recent $25,000 burglary. He is very proud of the curved tobacco box and delighted by the chi-chi rigamarole that accompanied its arrival: It seems that Kitty had to send him into Carter's to have his hip measured for it! Moss manages to be humorous about the robbery, his third experience in his current apartment. He says thieves have an uncanny knowledge of his comings and goings, as if they had access to his engagement pad. That was why, when Celebrity Service telephoned him the day after the robbery and asked when he was leaving for California and when he expected to return, he inquired with some iciness: "Is this for the Burglar's Edition?"

Monday: Lunched at the Coq Rouge with Carole Landis and Maggi McNellis and Dorothy Gulman, and the yatadayatada moved swiftly from books (Maggi loathed the Book-of-the-month-Club choice, "Angelic Avengers") to movies (Carole and I adored "Stairway to Heaven") to husbands and how to make coffee. Clothes, too naturally. Carole, who was wearing one of the new longer-skirted dresses — brown, tubular, with a ruffle at the bottom of the skirt that hit the calves of the Landis legs—said she had visited Don Loper's new salon in California just before coming East, and among other things he had suggested "for the New York apartment" a pair of lounging pajamas topped by a beaded ermine bolero.

"But this is JUST for sitting on the floor," he instructed. "If you sit on a chair, you'll ruin the whole effect."

* * *

Tuesday: To Toots Shor's, where I encountered Ted Lloyd, the radio manager, who told how he was an unwitting plaything of fate in a silly mix-up that was much more chic than a run-of-the-mill car robbery. Visiting a client who dwells in a Park ave. apartment building, Ted trustingly gave his car keys to the doorman out front so it could be parked nearby. The doorman returned same (he thought) to Lloyd later, but when Ted tried to use them they simple wouldn't work.

Half an hour and some dozen expostulations later, he took his dilemma to the doorman, who thereupon discovered he had confused Ted's car keys with those of another gentleman, but that, wonder of wonders, the other man had blithely accepted them, used them with no trouble at all in HIS car, and driven off in the dark of night for destination unknown.

There followed an apartment-to-apartment search for the tenant the gentleman had visited, and it developed that the tracked-down tenant was merely a business acquaintance of the gentleman and did not know his home telephone number. The grand finale, 12 hours later, found Lloyd trying to square himself with the cop on the beat, suppressing sniffles while waiting for a late train to Long Island the night before, and finally dispatching a messenger to a downtown garage to recover his keys and return those of the other car owner—who until the moment Ted phoned him at his office hadn't had the faintest notion that the keys weren't his own.

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, January 15.

A STATIC and crystallized state of affairs, latterly moving at high gear and into fields of spectacular accomplishment, may arrest the wheels of progress and bring depression and frustration into the mind Relaxation and diversion may be advised before any attempt be made to get a proper perspective on the sudden and dramatic trend of recent events These, having far-reaching and radical effect on the present as well as future fortunes, call for wise, sagacious and profound analysis before jumping into strange or untried fields of operation. Study fundamentals and re-organize plans

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a year in which the wheels of progress may seem to be blocked by a series of delays, obstructions and impediments.

A child born on this day may have a serious and reflective nature, inclined to be depressed and easily discouraged. Proper rest and physical attention may develop optimism and efficiency.

Congress Plays Jury

WASHINGTON— Investigation of scandalous and often criminal situations in public affairs is now a major occupation of many members of both houses of congress. The legislative arm of the government has become in effect, though not a legal fact, a national grand jury. Although this sort of work produces much dramatic publicity for the political benefit of statesmen thus engaged and some genuinely good reputations, men of serious mind in both the house and senate would be willing to drop investigations entirely and devote themselves to their real business of studying the need for legislation and molding laws into shape, if they felt that the administrative departments of the government could be trusted to police themselves.

That confidence they lack just now and this distrust is continuing sentiment, passing from one administration to another. The Democrats investigated the Republicans and had a gaudy time of it, as when Ferdinand Pecora was needling J. P. Morgan and some press-agent planted a female midget on the old man's knee. Out of that the people got the S. E. C. to restrain the larcenous tendencies of some types of swindlers, and Pecora got a job on the bench in New York.

* * *

AS COULD have been anticipated when the new deal came in, the temptation to steal, whether feloniously or by means of clever little schemes having the color of legality, was certain to conquer the weak moral resistance of many of the impostors who came bouncing into Washington to the tune of "happy days are here again" in 1933. Now, at the end of a cycle, the Republicans are in charge, with authority to investigate the rascals whom they have just turned out, and lad times are ahead. If President Truman permits the committees, and particularly his own old war investigation committee, to examine income tax returns, as President Roosevelt allowed Democratic committees to examine and flaunt the returns of others, the contrast between the public professions and the private operations of many eminent bleeding-hearts will be revealed. Not even the late president's own returns would necessarily be exempt.

The principal failure which may be held responsible for the continuation of these investigations by congress is chargeable to the department of justice. Attorneys general, being politicians and appointees of their respective presidents, instinctively shrink from the painful duty of exposing rascality by their own political kin, to the discredit of their own parties. There have been exceptions, but that is the rule. Under the new deal the situation in the department of justice has been the worse because the department itself has grown so large and so many men have held the job of attorney general under Roosevelt and President Truman that it has been very difficult for them to know all the people under them and keep aware of what they were doing. Assistants of many degrees are dumped into the department to serve dubious purposes, if only to get information.

* * *

THE COST of these investigations in money is not great, but they do consume the time of men who were better occupied at other work. In some cases the committees have been careless in their selection of professional investigators, on the order of the private detective, to do their spade work and bring in documents and witnesses. However, warned as they are by some recent disclosures that sneak-thieves and grafters were sent out with congressional credentials, some of whom enter the work fully intending to retain confidential information for their own future uses, the Republicans will be at least careful.

The necessity of all this could be reduced if there were in the government some permanent, nonpartisan agency with adequate powers and the character of a national grand jury and a conscientious determination not to engage in smearing for purely political purposes. The United States seems to be the only nation which indulges in congressional investigations or the equivalent thereof. They are, at once, an important corrective and, in the good sense, coercive force, a nuisance, a burden and a menace.

WALTER LIPPMAN

Council Wastes Time

AT CLEVELAND Senator Vandenberg was speaking for the first time as the leader of the majority party in foreign affairs. In such a speech what counts is not the detail of his views on this or that question but the general conception and the spirit with which he approaches all questions.

In that perspective the speech should bring confidence. It is a magnanimous speech. Mr. Vandenberg carries his new and greatly increased authority with a fine restraint and a convincing sincerity.

Thus he has ceased to speak of a bipartisan foreign policy and speaks instead of the need to "hammer out a permanent American foreign policy." This change of words and of emphasis is the surest sign that we are at the end of the long period of doubt and division which has lasted since the beginning of the first World war.

The question is no longer whether the peace and order of the world are a vital interest of the United States. That question, which has divided the country and perplexed the world for more than 30 years, is settled. Henceforth the question is how, not whether, the United States is to play its part.

Mr. Vandenberg spoke of the need for "broad gauged reorganization" of the state department and the foreign service, particularly to develop more long-range planning so that there need be less catch-as-catch-can improvisation and expediency."

All will agree that this is needed. But the practical question is where to begin.

The place to begin is, it seems to me, in the council of foreign ministers. For the fact is that if Gen. Marshall has to spend most of his time negotiating with M. Molotov in the council of foreign ministers, he will be quite unable to reorganize or to organize, or to do much long-range planning.

Unless the council of foreign ministers is reformed, there is little prospect that Sen. Vandenberg's demand for a reorganization of the conduct of foreign affairs can be met.

* * *

THE COUNCIL of foreign ministers was invented back in the days when Churchill, Stalin and Roosevelt were the Big Three. The idea then was that the Big Three would settle the basic issues, and that the foreign ministers would thresh out the terms of the agreement.

But when Roosevelt died, Churchill fell from power, and Stalin became almost inaccessible, the council of foreign ministers proved to be a most unsatisfactory instrument. It could not settle the issues which only the head of governments can settle, and therefore became entangled in tortuous quarrels and compromises.

The council has proved to be especially costly to the United States. M. Molotov could afford to sit there day after day arguing over side issues: behind him in Moscow there were Stalin and the politburo. Even Mr. Bevin could afford to engage himself in the endless discussion. For Britain through long experience has developed cabinet government.

But Mr. Byrnes had no one behind him at home to back him up to do the thinking and the planning which it was quite impossible for him to do while he was exhausting his energy wrestling with M. Molotov.

BRICKER TAKES OVER DIVISION HIGHWAY POST

Medina Man Becomes Engineer in Ashland District.

A new engineer in charge of Division 3 of the state highway department and two principal assistants were in the drivers' seats at Ashland headquarters today.

C. Homer Bricker, former Medina county engineer and former president of the County Engineers Association of Ohio, assumed the chief engineer's post as the appointee of Murray D. Shaffer, Ohio's new director of highways.

Serving with Bricker will be James Atkinson, of Galion, as engineer in charge of construction, and H. C. Mittendorf, of Ashland, as engineer in charge of maintenance.

Atkinson and Mittendorf were appointed by Bricker with the approval of Shaffer.

"Atkinson is on the job today, but Mittendorf probably won't be here until tomorrow or Thursday," Bricker said this morning. "And there probably won't be any action taken on county maintenance superintendencies for another 10 days."

Both Atkinson and Mittendorf are already employes of the state highway department. Atkinson is the division's engineer of traffic and safety and Mittendorf, formerly division manager of construction and right-of-way, is currently regional maintenance engineer with offices at Lancaster.

The county maintenance superintendents usually change with a new administration. Slated for the job in Richland county, now held by Clarence G. Tugend, is Glenn Swanger, mayor of Shiloh, who won the endorsement of the county GOP organization.

NEGRO HISTORY WEEK PLANNED

Plans for the observance of Negro History week the second week in February were discussed at a meeting of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in the public library last night. Mrs. Katherine McMichael presided in the absence of the president, Mrs. S. B. Beauford.

The discussion was led by the education committee, of which Mrs. John D. Green is chairman. It was voted to give $10 toward the obtaining of a special speaker for Sunday, Feb. 9, in a community-wide observance of the week, which is being sponsored here by the Mansfield Ministerial association, in co-operation with the NAACP and other welfare organizations.

It also was voted to contribute $10 toward the Friendly House building fund.

The February meeting will be held Feb. 10 and will be devoted to a discussion of the housing problem, with a speaker from Cleveland here for the meeting.

Two new members, Mrs. George Reece and Mrs. A. M. Colby, were present.

MADISON SCHOOLS ACQUIRE MORE LAND

The Madison township board of education today had purchased 5.85 acres of land behind the present school grounds on the Ashland road, transfer records at the county recorder's office showed.

Plans call for extending the present school recreation field into the newly-acquired area, but nothing definite toward preparation of the grounds or obtaining equipment is expected to be worked out for some time, Harold F. Tingley, clerk of the board, said.

The new land adjoins the present grounds on the south. One parcel of three acres was purchased from C. E. Rowen, while the second tract of 2.85 acres was acquired from John Barth jr.

Appeals Court Hears 4 Cases

The Fifth district court of appeals was scheduled to hear four cases in a two-day session opening today at the Richland county courthouse.

The session will mark the final appearance of presiding Judge Clyde C. Sherick, of Ashland, who was defeated at the last election by C. B. McClintock of Canton.

The court, including Judge Robert B. Putman of Millersburg and Charles W. Montgomery of Newark, is scheduled to hear these cases on appeal of the plaintiff's appellant:

Maynard L. Granger vs. Frank Mashuda, doing business as Frank Mashuda company; Trent Gregory vs. Clarence Connor; Harold Prelipp vs. Wanda Fay Prelipp, and, on appeal by the probate court, the State of Ohio vs. Grover Cleveland Baldridge.

BLACK REELECTED

Dr. Robert R. Black last night was reelected chairman of the Mansfield board of health at an organizational meeting. Dr. Fred O. Tonney, city-county health commissioner, was named secretary.

VETSVILLE'S FIRST BABY—Five-day-old Sandra Lee Turner opens her dark eyes at the cameraman as she snuggles in the arms of her mother, Mrs. Byram Turner. A moment later, Sandra Lee was sound asleep, totally unconcerned about such goings-on as picture taking and winning honors as Vetsville's first baby.—(News-Journal photo)

Dark-Eyed Sandra Lee Wins Hearts of Vetsville Residents

By NITA BRANSON

Sandra Lee, five days old, opened wide her dark eyes, looked at the cameraman curiously for a moment, then went back to sleep.

She wasn't any more interested in having her picture taken for the first time than she was in having the honor, as honors go of being Vetsville's first baby.

* * *

SANDRA LEE, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Byram Turner, was born at Mansfield General hospital Jan 8, weighing eight pounds, nine ounces. She has long, black hair that could be brushed into a curl if one tried pretty hard. She is a husky little thing for only five days and turned her head completely over in her pretty basinet.

Sandra Lee's papa is a navy veteran, having served aboard the USS Aircraft Carrier Lexington, and with a service record of three years and nine months. Her mother, attractive dark-eyed, too, is a native of Chicago and came with her husband to Vetsville last October.

THE TURNERS have two other little girls. Karen Ann is two and a half and Christine Louise was just one year old in August. They haven't quite made up their minds about their new sister. When asked if they didn't think she was pretty nice, Christine nodded her head vigorously but Karen was non-commital.

Sandra Lee and her mother left the hospital Sunday afternoon and bright and early Monday morning her paternal grandma, Mrs. Viva Heidelbaugh, 159 Columbia avenue, was out to see her.

But Sandra Lee was just as casual about Grandma as she was about pictures. She takes it all in her stride, just now being interested only in eating and sleeping.

"She's such a good baby," her mother said.

M'GREGOR NAMED TO COMMITTEE POST

Rep. J. Harry McGregor, U. S. congressman from the 17th district which includes Richland county, has been named to the house committee on public works, the Associated Press reported today.

McGregor, who defeated Wesley W. Purdy, Mansfield contractor, for the post at the polls last November, will serve on the committee with another veteran Republican, George H. Bender, of Cleveland, representative-at-large.

The names of the two men, and that of Frederick S. Smith of Marion on the banking and currency committee, were on the list of committee assignments ready for formal and routine approval by the house today.

However, house action on the committee memberships was expected to be delayed until tomorrow when the Democrats were to have their roster ready.

IOOF OFFICERS TAKE THEIR POSTS

Valentine Zirkel will preside as newly-installed noble grand at a special meeting of Mansfield lodge, No. 19, IOOF, Friday night when Johnsville lodge confers the second degree on a class of candidates.

Other officers, recently installed, who will take their posts Friday includ Fred Dillon, vice grand; Charles S. Wilson, recording secretary; T. A. Klein, financial secretary; James Sellers, treasurer; Glenn Snyder, right supporter of noble grand; Eugene Fritz, left supporter; Gerald Higgins, warden; Jeff Lewis, conductor; R. A. Mengert, right scene supporter; Howard Shadel, left scene supporter; John Uzunoff, outside guard; Earl Ryder, inside guard; Donald Shuler, chaplain; R. E. Kennedy, right supporter to vice grand; A. N. Niman, left supporter to vice grand.

Clyde Plotts of Mansfield, representative from district No. 20, was in charge of the recent installation, following which the first degree was conferred on a class of five candidates. Refreshments were served at the close of the degree exemplification.

Cub Heads Attend Training Course

Cub Commissioner H. K. Day and Howard Stauffer last night began a three-week training course for Cub pack leaders from Galion and Crestline at the Galion high school.

The course will be held on three consecutive Mondays at 7:30 p. m. in the Galion high school.

COUNTY HOME COST RICHLAND $23,103 IN '46

Income of Nearly $10,000 Produced on Farm.

Richland county spent $23,103.27 last year to maintain 100 residents in the county home, the year-end report of the county commissioners disclosed today.

But while the gross per capita cost of caring for the residents was $330.50, the 320-acre farm attached to the home produced an income of nearly $10,000 to help reduce the per capita cost to $175.49.

Of the 100 old folk who lived at the home during the year, 30 have been discharged, leaving a total of 70 residents at the home at the end of the year.

Residents consumed $6,000 worth of produce from the county farm in addition to 4,289 spent for groceries and other provisions. The gas and light bill totaled $2,919.

Other expenses included the superintendent's salary of $1,618, and the matron's salary of $1,318.

The farm produced $9,039.45 worth of farm produce, and $1,779.41 was paid into the treasury from other sources.

The report showed that the home was valued at $206,540. Buildings were valued at $170,000, while the land had an estimated worth of $16,800.

RUSK NAMED TO VFW POST

In a move to push state and local conservation efforts, Mansfield's Alfred I. Harrington Post No. 3494, VFW, last night appointed Walter W. Rusk as local conservation representative.

"The purpose of the VFW state and local action," Rusk explained, "is not to take the lead from duly constituted conservation authorities, but to help promulgate greater conservation measures in every phase of the work from game and fish to soil conservation."

Rusk pointed out that although the money obtained from fish and game licenses is sufficient to restock wild life, funds are insufficient for other phases of conservation.

A delegation from the VFW state conservation department will ask the Ohio legislature for appropriations for other conservation projects, Rusk said.

The local VFW post also passed a resolution to join with other veterans' organizations and the Joint Veterans' Commission of Richland county in supporting the move to retain the fairgrounds in its present location and to buy adjacent land for expansion.

SHILOH EMPLOYS CANTON TEACHER

The Shiloh board of education last night employed David Phenegar of Canton as physical education teacher and sports coach, County School Supt. Boyd Robinson reported today.

Phenegar, who has taught six years, will replace Daryle Heiser, who has resigned effective Jan. 24.

Still being sought is a physical education and English teacher for Madison high school, Robinson said. The Madison vacancy must be filled by the end of this week because of the resignation of Mrs. Margaret Ziroff, who is leaving Mansfield.

BEAM HEADS LAW LIBRARY AGAIN

Atty. L. H. Beam today was starting his 39th year as president of the Richland County Law Library association following his reelection to his 14th three-year term at the annual meeting of the library board of trustees yesterday in the courthouse.

Atty. Joseph A. Bayer was elected vice president; Assistant County Prosecutor Claude F. Ewing was elected secretary, and H. L. Creveling was retained as treasurer and librarian.

Following the election of officers the board of trustees heard and approved the librarian's report.

Members of the board are Ottys. L. H. Beam, Joseph Bayer, Claude F. Ewing, Van C. Cook, John C. O'Donnell, Marshall Moore and H. H. Schettler.

Memorial Rites Conducted Today

Memorial services for Mrs. Annette Coulter Bromfield, who died at the home of her son, Author-Farmer Louis Bromfield at Malabar farm last Tuesday, were to be held this afternoon at the Grace Episcopal church.

Rev. Samuel U. J. Peard, rector of the church, was to give the memorial tribute. Members of the family from out-of-town who were expected to attend were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bromfield of New York City, Mr. and Mrs. John Mauger and Mrs. Ernest Necker of Chicago.

Up and Down The Street

MORE ROBINS—

Maybe we DO have an early spring! With the first robin of the year already reported as cavorting in snowy landscapes on Park avenue west on Jan. 11, two more Mansfielders report seeing more of the cheery red-breasted birds. Mrs. Howard Schuck, 181 Raleigh avenue, said one visited the bird feeder in her yard this morning and Neil Roller, 12-year-old son of Rev. and Mrs. David N. Roller, reported he saw two robins yesterday.

'ANCHORS AWEIGH'—

It'll be "Anchors Aweigh" indoors tonight at 7:30 as Mansfield's Division 195, Organized Naval Reserve, goes into action on the "second deck" of the Memorial building. Lt. Cmdr. A. E. Heiser said it will be a uniform drill and the recently commissioned officers will take over the training. Mansfielder Lt. Cmdr. Thomas B. Wright, jr., is commanding officer. Other Mansfield officers are Lt. Carl G. A. Johnson, executive officer; Lt. Robert H. Coe, supply officer, and Lt. William L. Curtice, jr., communications officer.

HIGH WINDS—

While a strong south wind was whipping around Mansfield street corners today forcing shoppers to hang onto their hats, it was comparatively mild compared to the gale 1,000 feet above the city. Airport personnel reported a ground wind of about 20 miles per hour, but said that at 1,000 feet the wind was blowing approximately 55 miles per hour.

Coin Honoring Negro Leader Received Here

Half dollar coins, commemorating the life and service of Booker T. Washington, famed Negro educator, had been received today by the Mansfield Savings Trust National bank.

From each of three federal mints, Philadelphia, San Francisco and Denver, the Mansfield bank was sent $50 worth of these special coins. Coins from the Philadelphia and San Francisco mints will sell for $1 each and those from Denver at $1.50 each.

Authorization of the coinage of 5,000,000 of the special half dollars has been made by the federal government, to be sold at a premium, to aid the establishment of a "service memorial" at the birthplace of Washington in Franklin county, Va.

In order to further the memorial program for the late Negro leader, recently elected to the hall of fame, the Booker T. Washington Birthplace Memorial, Inc., has been formed and the People's National bank of Rocky Mount, Va., has been asked to serve as treasurer of the memorial funds.

Tax Payments Coming In Early

Although the first half real estate tax collection was barely under way today, county taxpayers were crowding into the treasurer's office and scores of others were paying by mail, Treasurer Charles C. Payne reported.

The treasurer had collected a total of $44,627 up to last night, exclusive of mail which was received yesterday. Payne reported $14,051 paid in at the windows yesterday.

Deadline for payment without penalty is Feb. 20.

Foremen to Tour Assembly Lines

A tour of the assembly lines of Westinghouse Mansfield plant, and an address by Robert G. Chollar, director of research, National Cash Register company, Dayton, will fill the agenda at tonight's meeting of the Mansfield-Shelby Foremen's club.

Members will meet at Westinghouse at 6:15 p. m. After dinner, at 6:30 p. m., club members will be conducted on the assembly line tour. Chollar will address the group in the Westinghouse auditorium.

COL. DURKEE WILL COMMAND HEADQUARTERS

Dozen A-26 Medium Bombers To Be Assigned For Use of Mansfield Squadron.

Appointment of Col. Robert E. Durkee as group commander and the selection of his staff of 15 for the headquarters of the 321st Bombardment Group to be activated here soon were announced today.

Col. Durkee was notified of his appointment by Col. C. A. Bassett, commander of the Cleveland Army Air Base.

Col. Durkee selected for his staff the following reserve officers: Maj. James R. McConnell, deputy commander; Capt. Robert K. McClurg, operations officer; Capt. Floyd W. Roberts, assistant operations officer; Lt. Richard L. Pittenger, communications officer; Capt. John F. Meifert, engineering officer; Capt. A. G. Gilbert, air inspector; Capt. Robert H. Finical, adjutant; Maj. Russell H. Barnes, flight surgeon; Lt. Anton Letang, radar; Lt. Charles M. Kirkham, statistical officer; Lt. Sam T. Korodi, weather officer; Lt. Glenn O. DuBois, ordnance officer; Lt. Marion L. McDaniel jr., aerial photographic officer; Lt. Walter L. Mapes, intelligence officer; Lt. William Davidson, special service officer.

To Enroll 75 Enlisted Men.

Activation orders expected, probably this month, will authorize the formation of the headquarters squadron which will provide training for as many AAF reserve officers in this area as wish to avail themselves of the opportunity to keep in flying trim, Maj. Howard E. Odell said.

The squadron will also be authorized to enroll 75 enlisted men and will provide training to a number of ground officers, he reported.

Two other squadrons will be located at Akron and Cleveland.

Activation of the squadron here is expected to bring about twelve A-26 medium bombers to the Mansfield airport. Notice of the assignment of the fast twin engined ship to the group was hailed with enthusiasm by Mansfield pilots, Odell said.

Plans call for ferrying the planes here on training days, rather than basing them here, because of lack of facilities for housing the planes and necessary maintenance equipment at the Mansfield port. The planes will be brought from Cleveland every eighth day.

It is hoped that facilities eventually can be made available for permanent assignment of the planes here, Odell said.

Plan Complete Program.

A complete training program for all personnel will be conducted to include pilot training, navigation, radar, engineering, bombardment and gunnery among other training subjects.

Tentative plans are under way to establish a group headquarters office in the city, but no definite selection of a site has been made, Odell said.

Reserve officers and former enlisted men wishing to register for training with the unit should contact Joseph Lesch at Yuncker Brothers store.

Notification of selection of the staff members will be sent to Cleveland Army Air Base and forwarded for approval of Maj. Gen. Thomas J. Hanley, commanding general of the 11th Air Force of which the 321st bombardment group will be a part.

Col. Durkee, came to Mansfield upon his release from active duty with Army Air Forces last February.

He is a senior pilot with more than 4,000 hours flying time. Before his release from active duty, he was commanding officer of Bowman Field. He was assigned to the Flying Training Command for nearly six years.

2 More Flee Reformatory

Police today were on the lookout for two Mansfield reformatory inmates who escaped from the institution's farm dormitory yesterday afternoon, Arthur L. Glattke, superintendent reported.

The escapers were Norman Clark, 22, received from Lake county Nov. 27, 1945, to serve one to three years for carrying concealed weapons, and Lester Wagers, 20, received from Hamilton county Nov. 22, 1944 to serve a sentence of one to 15 years for burglary.

Meanwhile, two other inmates who escaped from the institution Saturday were still at large today, Glattke said.

They are Jack Sharp, 34, of Richland county and Jack Cantrel, 23, of Spartansburg, S. C.

Reports Plumbing Shop Burglarized

Ira Bowman, who lives on the Linn road west of Five Points, reported to sheriff's deputies yesterday that burglars have stolen $400 worth of plumbing equipment from his shop in the past month.

Bowman said his house adjoining his shop was entered Sunday night and told deputies that some of the items were taken then.

He listed hot water tanks, copper coils and other plumbing equipment among the missing items.

MANSFIELD TYGERS BATTLE SPRINGFIELD FIVE

Cuff Stuff

By Fred Tharp

FROM NOTES ON A BANQUET TABLE CLOTH: Bo McMillin, the silver-thatched word slinger from over Indiana way, "done did" himself proud at the 11th annual News-Journal football fete . . . Recognized as the best speaker among the college coaches who follow the "hard bun" circuit, Bo does not often get to follow his profession of a "family man" . . . First the football team takes away three months in the fall and then the great banquet demand starts . . . He will be in Austin, Texas, Wednesday telling of his "pore little boys" at the University of Texas banquet . . . Bo then goes into Dallas for a high school fete Thursday and back to his athletic director desk at Indiana on Friday . . . And so it goes with the genial Bo.

Bo and Coaches Paul Snyder and Jeff DeHaven huddled after the fete at a get together at Ed Sutter's "retreat" . . . The three mentors discussed Bo's cockeyed T offense and the other bits of coaching wizardry that makes the Hoosier grid demagogue the most respected in the Western Conference . . . Bo passed on a lot of fine grid offensive stuff to the two Mansfield high school football teachers.

The Indiana coach regarded Michigan as the most finished football team in the Big Nine last season . . . Bo said that he thought his Indiana team was the second best with Illinois third . . . Indiana knocked off the Illini, Rose Bowl champions, 14 to 7 while the latter team downed the Wolves, 13 to 9 . . . Bo watched Illinois edge Ohio State and he thought the Bucks were a mighty good ball club . . . He figures that the Illinois game took a lot out of Paul Bixler's aggregation leaving them open for that merciless beating by Michigan.

DISSA AND DATA: Bo McMillin's word magic, awarding of most valuable player awards and gold footballs, good food and an altogether fast moving program made the banquet the best ever according to fete guests . . . It is a start of a series of bigger and better annual post-season grid affairs . . . Last night's banquet officially closed fine seasons for both Mansfield and Madison high school football teams.

N-J Gridiron Banquet Has Thrills of 'Real' Game

By JOHN MINE

Football history was made last night. Both teams won—and so did the spectators.

To top even that: a COACH scored most of the touchdowns!

For the approximately 500 fans who jammed Coliseum "stadium" to take part in the 11th annual News-Journal football banquet, only a nippy autumn breeze was needed to make the "game" seem real. It had everything else.

(There were some, it was reported, who got so excited they turned up their coat collars, pulled an imaginary blanket around their legs and wondered: "where in the devil is the hot-dog man?" They thought they were IN a stadium!)

As the banquet charged again and again across the goal line with surprises and thrills, grid fans from six to 60 cheered it on.

Now they were on the edges of the "stadium" seats as a secret play was about to be uncorked—the naming of the most valuable players on the Tyger and Madison elevens—Jack Cleckner of Madison and Ralph Majors of Senior high.

Then they were on their feet cheering as senior members of the two teams crossed into "pay dirt" to receive from Sam Fox, jeweler, gold footballs—awards for top playing and sportsmanship.

Against a background of goal posts and megaphones and real footballs, honest-to-goodness cheerleaders drew grid yells from the fans.

Completing the picture was a "Football Banquet Extra" put out by the News-Journal. The "extra" went on "sale" at the "stadium" shortly after "Bo" McMillin completed an address sparked with the wit that has made him famed as an after dinner speaker. The "extra" carried "complete results."

If anyone in the crowd didn't hear the thumping of pigskin against shoe leather they just weren't listening!

But it was at half-time, as the spectators were washing down the last bits of a good dinner, that the star player charged onto the field—Coach Bo McMillin, of Indiana university.

In 60 fast minutes of "playing" time, "Bo" took the crowd through a half-dozen grid games, gave them yards of under-the-stadium philosophy and passed them a locker-full of McMillin humor.

He fumbled not once and came up so often with "trick reverses" that he had the stadium now roaring; now pondering; now chuckling; now gasping.

In a mixed Kentucky-Texas-Indiana drawl, Bo, reeled off first down after first down of pep-talk that made the crowd figure it was half-time at Indiana and the Hoosiers were behind.

Even as later he "coached" his team through a motion picture game with Nebraska, Bo's wit sliced off tackle for scores.

When the final "quarter" ended the only losers were those who left before the last play was completed or those who failed to buy banquet ducats for a spot on the 50-yard line.

VISITORS RATE AMONG OHIO'S BETTER CLUBS

Reserve Contest Opens Bargain Bill at 7 P. M.

Springfield high school brings one of Ohio's better scholastic cage aggregations here tonight to battle Vern Hoffman's constantly improving team.

Fred Staub's Mansfield sophomores meet the Springfield reserves in the preliminary tilt at 7 p. m.

The Wild Cats have racked up eight victories in 11 starts, losing only to Middletown's defending state campions, Dayton Wilbur Wright and Dayton Stivers. In 1945-46 Mansfield defeated Springfield, 31 to 27.

Carl Parrill and Carl Lawrence, two lads who started against the Tygers last season, will be in there tonight with a third letterman, John Evans, completing the front line. Starters among the guard corps are Dick Norman and Ed Roberts. Lawrence is the lone six-footer.

Ollie Cline, Tyger veteran, was in the starting lineup of the club that defeated last season's Wild Cats and letterman Chuck Sisco saw relief duty. Ralph Majors, Mansfield's third letterman, played in the reserve clash last year.

Majors seems to have found his shooting eye after a slow start. He notched only 18 points in his first six contests but in two of the last three, the scrappy forward accounted for 10 counters.

Nick Gagich and Tommy Bloor complete the Tygers' starting club. Bloor leads the Bengal scorers with 101 points while Gagich is fourth in the scoring column with 80. However, he has counted 74 in his last seven tilts.

Richland Quintet Raps Clothiers Five, 33-27

Richland Beverage dethroned the heretofore undefeated Komito's Clothiers, 33 to 27, in the City A league at the Senior high gym last night.

Komito's were tied with Smokehouse for the top rung of the first division. Both teams had won four loop contests. The Cuemen remain the only unbeaten quintet in the city league.

Wilbur Wade set the pace for the Beveragemen with four field goals and two foul shots for 10 tallies. Grabbing a first quarter, 11-7, margin the Beverage five pulled away to a 22-17 halftime advantage.

"Stretch" Regula, towering Clothier center, met his match in Bill Martin and was held to seven points. Martin controlled many of the rebounds and dropped six points into the Richland basket.

With the score notched, 18-18, at the half, Yunckers put on a third quarter rally to drop Mansfield Tire, 39 to 36. The Sporting goods quintet scored 14 points while holding the Tiré five to four in that mad burst.

Joe Miller greased the nets for 14 points for the Yunckers combine. Bob Reinhart fired away for 19 points for the hapless Tiremen.

Jack Hammett, Barnes forward found the range to lead his squad to an easy 50 to 24 victory over the AVC squad. Hammett, leading loop scorer split the nets for 18 markers.

Barnes took a first quarter 9-5 lead and enlarged it at the half 23-12.

Substitute center Mel Harner hit the goal for eight points for the veterans.

Famed Illinois Whiz Kids Slaughter Ohio State

CHICAGO—(INS)—The return of the Illinois Whiz Kids to winning ways and Iowa's uphill triumph over Minnesota's Gophers were the high points today of four Western conference basketball games.

Illinois defeated Ohio State, 61 to 42; Iowa turned back Minnesota, 77 to 64; Indiana upset Purdue, 62 to 46, and Michigan tripmphed over Northwestern, 49 to 41, last night.

At Iowa City, the Hawkeyes trailed Minnesota at the half, 34 to 32.

Paced by Herb Wilkinson, who wound up with 17 points, Iowa forged to victory in the second half.

Indiana's alert Hoosiers cashed in on most of their scoring chances in defeating Purdue at Bloomington, Ind.

At Evanston, Ill., Michigan's Wolverines used their superior height and shooting power to overcome a Northwestern team which recently lost several of its stars through ineligibility.

Wisconsin, which was idle last night, leads the conference with three victories and no defeats.

COLUMBUS — (INS) — A road-weary band of Ohio State Bucks returned home to Columbus today in a most unhappy frame of mind.

Ohio State was the victim of a comeback by the in-and-out Whiz Kids of Illinois last night.

That was the third straight defeat for Tippy Dye's athletes and their sixth against no victories away from home. Coupled with losses to Iowa and Indiana, the setback completely eliminated Ohio State from defense of its Western conference championship.

A miserable first half was the chief source of Ohio's trouble last night. Illinois was away to a 31-to-8 midway lead, and thereafter there was no catching the Illini.

Jack Smiley of the Whiz Kids hit for 22 points while Fred Green contributed 13 and Andy Phillip 10 to the Illinois attack. Bob Bowen, sub forward, paced Ohio with 10.

The Bucks entertain Northwestern Saturday night in their next outing.

FBI Director Issues Ultimatum on Sports

By FRED MULLEN, UP Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—The sporting world faced an ultimatum from FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover today to clean out the "scum" or prepare for a storm of public wrath.

Promoters and participants alike must see that sports are kept "clean and above the ugly rumors of fixes and control by gamblers," he told a press conference. Otherwise, "public opinion will demand an accounting and in no unmistakable manner."

Hoover, a firm believer in sports and a fan himself, delivered his warning as professional sports nursed its worst black eye in years—the "bribe scandal" in which a New York gambler attempted to induce two New York Giants football players to throw a game.

The FBI head opposed a federal law against gambling except as a "last resort." Those responsible for the welfare of sports, he said, "have a sacred duty to perform of which no local or federal law can relieve them."

Nevertheless, Rep. F. Edward Hebert (D., La.) planned to seek swift action on a bill introduced yesterday to provide penalties of $10,000 fine and 10 years' imprisonment for bribing athletes or officals in interstate athletic contests.

Hebert said he introduced the bill to protect "the kids who believe our sports are part and parcel of our American way of life."

Bert Bell, commissioner of the National Professional Football league, had appealed to Attorney General Tom C. Clark for such a bill.

Hoover said these steps must be taken:

1. A definite and determined effort should be made by those directly responsible for the development of sporting events, and the participants of athletic contests, to keep sports above reproach. They will be the first to suffer once the gamblers are able to fix athletic contests. It is their responsibility to clean house and keep it clean. And it is just as important that it appear honest as well as actually be honest and unsullied.

2. Where local and state laws prohibit gambling they should be enforced with all the vigor that is possible. Where laws are not being enforced, the law-abiding citizens not only have the right but the duty to demand enforcement.

Joe Tinker To Lose Leg

ORLANDO, Fla. — (AP) — Joe Tinker, 66, lay on a hospital bed today awaiting amputation of his left leg and, to all appearances, being late on a throw to first base would have caused him more concern. His major worry appeared to be that he might miss some of his baseball activities during the coming season.

Tinker said he expected "to see some baseball" this summer but probably would not do as much scouting for the Boston Braves as he has in recent seasons.

The former Chicago Cub shortstop, who helped make baseball history after the turn of the century as the starting cog in the famed Tinker-to-Evers-to-Chance infield combination, will have his leg severed above the knee Thursday to halt a gangrenous condition.

Madison Seeks Sixth In Row

Mansfield Madison will be after its sixth cage victory of the 1946-47 season when it entertains Lexington tonight.

In a previous contest the Rams eeked out a, 39 to 37, win over Coach John Rees' Minutemen in an overtime period.

Coach Jeff DeHaven has been working on a defense to stop the high scoring Lexington forward, Rollin Ford. Ford is in third place of the Richland county individual scorers with 90 tallies, only two behind Bob Hampton, Plymouth, who is leading the race.

Coach Bill Kopcial's Madison reserve quintet plays Lexington's reserves in the preliminary fracas at 7:15 p. m.

Irish Will Follow In De-Emphasis

SOUTH BEND, Ind. —(LP)— Notre Dame university will not lead in the emphasis of intercollegiate athletics, but will follow other major schools which establish "practical standards," Rev. John J. Cavanaugh, C. S. C., president, told the annual Irish football banquet last night.

Regarding the recent break in the 33-year-old grid relationship between Notre Dame and Army, Father Cavanaugh made only one comment: That the danger of gamblers "getting to" players of either team had nothing to do with the rupture.

Madison Boosters Meet

Madison high school booster club will meet tomorrow at 7:30 p. m. at the high school, Bill Erdenberger, secretary, announced today. Plans for a party for the football and basketball teams, Band and cheer leaders will be discussed.

SPORTS FALLACIES by MARGERY MILLER

To the casual observer jai alai, the game which is the delight of Spanish-speaking peoples, seems no more dangerous than tennis. It resembles tennis somewhat, as the players volley a white ball back and forth. Actually, however, the game fractures numerous skulls in a season, and causes other serious injuries.

The danger of jai alai lies mostly in the type of ball used. The pelota is a bits maller than a baseball and considerably harder than a golf ball. It bounces off the wall against which it is served, at better than 100 miles an hour. Careless or clumsy players cannot play long without being hit and badly hurt—possibly even killed.

Heavy Cage Action Continues to Separate Sheep From Goats In High School Circles

By JOHN BARRINGTON, INS Sports Writer

Buckeye fans could indulge in some mid-season speculation on the subject of pre-tournament favorites today as heavy action continued to separate the sheep from the goats on the scholastic basketball front.

Emerging from a week-end dotted with casualties, a handful of entries attracted particular attention amidst an unusually rugged field. The Hot Shot Charlies were well scattered over the state.

Cleveland, for example, had one outstanding candidate in Benedictine, winner of 21 straight when it defeated John Adams, 54 to 28.

Canton had a pair of undefeated contenders, McKinley and Lehman each notched two weekend victories to run the McKinley skein to right and the Lehman string to nine.

McKinley walloped Akron St. Vincent's, 53 to 42, and Warren, 47-35. Lehman squeezed by Youngstown Rayen, 36 to 35, and Canton Lincoln, 40 to 33, in a hectic 48 hours.

Down Columbus way, Upper Arlington made it eight in a row with a pair of victories. In Cincinnati, Walnut Hills, Lockland Wayne, North College Hill and Elder all survived.

The classic game was Elder's ding-dong 40-to-36 conquest of St. Xavier after the latter had won nine straight.

Toledo was represented in the links of the pure and undefiled by Central Catholic, a nine game winner although it barely pulled its Friday night engagement with Macomber out of the fire, 44 to 37.

The most-likely-to-succeed classification was by no means confined to the big cities.

Bluffton came up with its ninth in a row, defeating Kenton, 65-33, as brilliant Neil Schmidt shoveled in 25 points. Chillicothe made it eight straight with a 43-37 decision over Ironton.

Salem sparkled in registering No. 6 by humbling previously unbeaten East Liverpool, 37 to 28.

The Potters came back the next night and annihilated Massillon, 50 to 38.

Bryan joined the 8-0 ranks with a neat 50-46 trick against Napoleon.

Not a few quintets tasted the dregs of defeat for the first time and found them bitter indeed. Most hapless was the plight of Portsmouth, which suffered a double going over after winning six in succession. First Huntington, W. Va., East whipped the Trojans, 54 to 50, then Springfield followed suit, 36-34. .....

Hamilton ran into a surprising upset against Greenfield McClain, 46 to 33, then came back to trip Lima Central, 46 to 43. Youngstown East was handed its first loss by Rayen, 37 to 28.

In the dark-horse division, classy Findlay (7-2) drubbed Bowling Green, 60 to 26; Ashland (7-1) shaded Toledo Woodward, 46-42, in an overtime; and Newark took the Central Ohio league lead by whippingDover, 52-32, Saturday night.

BAND RECOLLECTIONS—Tonight Mansfield Senior high school band will celebrate its 25th anniversary and that of its director, J. Merton Holcombe, with a dinner at Prospect park pavilion. Holcombe will recall how the 1923 band members (top) bought their own uniforms, the first worn by the high school music organization. He will recall how members of the 1926 band (bottom) won the state championship. The uniforms they wore when this picture was taken 21 years ago were purchased by a group of 15 Mansfield business men, all members of the Chamber of Commerce. Today, uniforms are purchased by funds raised by the Band Parents club, which is sponsoring tonight's celebration. At the right, is Cecelia Parsons, now Mrs. Lionell Miller of Stanford, Conn., the first majorette for the Mansfield group and also the first majorette of any class A high school band in the United States. These pictures are a part of the collection of band pictures in Holcombe's possession.

Majors, Cleckner Picked Most Valuable Players

"rushed" to the News-Journal for reproduction in the "extra."

* * *

ALSO ON THE front page appeared a picture of Sam Fox, jeweler, presenting to Kenny Horvath, Mansfield high school fullback, his gold football. Fox presented 35 of the gold footballs in all.

In addition, the "extra" carried in bold type the names of the "guests of honor" for the banquet, a "faked" story on some jokes that might have been "cracked" back and forth among the Madison and Senior high players, and pictures of Majors and Cline.

When the last guests had left the hall, not a copy of the "souvenir" edition of the News-Journal remained on the tables. Most of them had been autographed by McMillin; others had been carried home as reminders of an evening well spent.

* * *

McMILLIN, in his address, lived up to advance bookings. He told a dozen stories about football and football players and used them to illustrate his theme that "playing the game" was just as important in life as on the football field. Recalling that he had coached perhaps 300 All-America football players in his long career as a gridiron mentor, he asserted emphatically that not all of them were real "All-Americans." Many, he said, lacked the "most valuable" player attributes such as he said must have ruled the lives of Majors and Cleckner off the field as well as on, to have earned for them the high honor their teammates gave them.

He had a word of high praise for the high school football coaches. "I don't know how they do it," he said. "They must stay up at nights planning their plays."

BUT, THROUGHOUT his talk, he urged the players to use their athletic ability to acquire an education that would permit them to be "champions" in later life; to take the places of leadership in the community now occupied by their parents and older friends who had come to the banquet to pay them honor. He climaxed his talk by showing technicolor pictures of the Indiana-Nebraska game, won by Indiana 27 to 7.

Early in the evening, the cheerleaders of Senior high — Betty Timmons, Betty Blake and Dorothy Speck—led the crowd in an "Hello Bo." The cheerleaders of Madison high—Mary Miller, Eleanor Stevens, Maxine Guthrie and Lucille Berry—led the crowd in fifteen "rahs" for Madison.

The invocation had been pronounced by Rev. David N. Roller, pastor of the First Presbyterian church.

* * *

THE MADISON and Mansfield senior football players who received gold footballs from Fox were:

Butter Prices Hold Up Here; Market Drops

Mansfield housewives still were paying from 75 to 80 cents per pound for butter today as the asking price in Cleveland skidded as much as six cents to a low of 70.

While a spokesman for Kroger stores here said they were selling at 79 cents, two cents above their prices last week, an Isaly Dairy company spokesman said prices charged at retail by his company were 75 to 76 cents.

"The market is very unstable. There may be another drop of two or three cents per pound later this week or next week. The trend has been downward since the middle of November," he said.

One wholesale company in Cleveland reported a slash of nine cents during the last week and one chain dropped its retail price to 70 cents.

WARNING! ACT FAST ON PIN-WORMS

Pin-Worm infection usually spreads like wildfire. And it is now known that the ugly creatures, living and growing inside the human body, can cause real distress. So don't take chances with Pin-Worms. And don't suffer a single needless minute from the miseries of the aggravating rectal itch or other troubles caused by the pests. Get JAYNE'S P-W at the first sign of Pin-Worms. P-W is a medically sound treatment based on an officially recognized drug principle which has proved so wonderful in dealing with this infection. The small P-W tablets act in a special way to remove Pin-Worms easily and safely. Ask your druggist: P-W for Pin-Worms!

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills. —Adv.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

EASTERN STAR'S TENTH DISTRICT MEETS IN GALION

Members From 16 Towns Attend Sessions.

GALION—Installation of officers in the morning and school of instruction in the afternoon were features of the annual meeting of the Tenth District of Ohio, Order of Eastern Star, in Galion Monday.

Representatives from more than 15 towns in northern Ohio attended the session. More than 226 delegates were registered for the meeting.

The morning session was opened by Elma Stevenson, of Shiloh, junior past president. District officers installed were president, Esther Place of Galion; vice president, Donna Dawson of Plymouth; secretary-treasurer, Adda Irwin of Upper Sandusky.

Installation was in charge of Faye Thomas, of Galion, and Isabel Monroe and Alice Zimmerman of Galion, installing marshals. The address of welcome was given by Frieta Shawber, worthy matron of Naomi chapter of Galion, with a response by Martha Sponsler of Carey.

Other special music was provided by Orva Dawson of Plymouth and Lois McGrow of Bellville, vocalists. Bertha Tracht was organist for the ceremony.

Isabel Monroe of Galion, deputy grand matron, called the meeting to order in the afternoon and turned it over to Lucille Milner of Tipp City, worthy grand matron.

A school of instruction was held, and the work was exemplified by the officers of the Plymouth chapter of which Mr. and Mrs. James Root are worthy patron and worthy matron.

The afternoon session was closed with refreshments, Mrs. Harry Volk and Mrs. Chester Burress presiding at the table. The next annual meeting will be held at Plymouth.

Bucyrus Child Wins $10,000 In Suit Against Gas Company

BUCYRUS — A $10,000 verdict has been returned in common pleas court in Toledo against the Ohio Fuel Gas company in favor of Karen Montooth, five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Serge Montooth, who was blown through a window of the Montooth home Sept. 17, 1945, when the house was leveled by a gas blast.

The girl's suit had sought $35,000 damages. Her mother also has a $50,000 action pending against the gas company and her father a $20,000 suit. Neither has been set for trial.

Mrs. Montooth and her daughter were in the building when the blast tore it to shambles. The girl was thrown clear and the mother was pinned in the wreckage. Both were taken to the hospital.

The Montooths alleged in the girl's suit that the gas company was negligent in answering to a call informing the concern gas was escaping from an outlet in the house.

EARNEY NAMED HEALTH LEADER

MILLERSBURG — Dr. A. J. Earney, Millersburg physician, has been reappointed health commissioner of Holmes county for two years, it was announced today.

Mrs. Geraldine Swaykus, of Millersburg, was reappointed clerk of the board, a position she has held for several years.

Harold Kraus, of Mt. Hope, was re-elected vice president. Other members of the board include Mrs. Verle Spreng, Lakeville R. D., Rev. Earl Miller, Berlin, and William Pyers, Millersburg.

The health board has accepted a budget amounting to $3,655 for operation during the coming year. This is an increase of $200 over the amount allocated last year to the department.

CRAWFORD FILES $686,301 BILL

BUCYRUS — Crawford county commissioners have approved the county's 1947 appropriation budget for $686,301, including $285,901 to be spent from the general fund.

The county is entering the new year "in the black," which permitted a higher budget than the $575,695 appropriation approved last year.

This year's bill provides for expenditures of $383,000 for the county road and bridge fund; $10,000 from the state road and bridge fund and $7,400 from the dog fund.

Among appropriations are:

Courthouse, jail, $15,740; county home, $16,900; charity, $4,000; agriculture, $7,700; commisioners, $7,980; auditor, $14,680; board of elections, $11,980! recorder, $8,827; prosecutor, $5,992.80; common pleas court, $6,930; probate court, $13,740; clerk of courts, $7,727; sheriff, $14,817, and engineer, $14,690.

WAR CHECKUP BACKERS WIN

WASHINGTON — (INS) — The newest revolt in senate Republican ranks—over continuing the one-time Truman war investigating committee—collapsed today.

Senate leadership supporters of the Brewster resolution to keep alive the war probing committee counted noses and were sure they can pick up enough Democratic votes to offset their loss of a handful of GOP votes.

However, Sen. Brewster (R) Maine, was forced to compromise to avert a threat of opposition from the senate armed forces committee.

Brewster had to go before the armed forces group and assure it that his committee will not go into surplus property at home or abroad, into military occupation policies in former enemy countries, or into war contract matters that did not have their beginning before V-J day.

Brewster said he was satisfied with the narrowed field. He said he wants to concentrate on "war contracts, war profits, profiteering and corruption."

Hinting that some large profit cases will be unearthed, Brewster said that "we've got some nice items on dummy corporations already." He added:

"We find more inclination on the part of informed persons to tell tales now than there was before election. As the gangster jargon goes, they're begining to sing."

Brewster also will ask now that his committee be extended for only a year, instead of for the two years of the 80th congress, which his original resolution called for.

FRANCIS' ATTORNEYS WILL FILE APPEAL

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Attorneys for Willie Francis today planned an appeal to the supreme court for a rehearing as "the last chance" of saving the Louisiana youth from a second trip to the electric chair.

J. Skelly Wright, Washington lawyer who argued the Francis appeal before the high court, said he would file a plea with the tribunal this week for reconsideration of its 5 to 4 decision.

The supreme court yesterday, by the one vote margin, rejected the argument that Francis' execution would violate constitutional bars against double penalties and cruel punishments.

Brotherhood Plans To Meet In Galion

GALION—The Otterbein brotherhood of First Evangelical United Brethren church of Galion will be host next Sunday to the Shelby district quarterly meeting.

The Galion church has accepted the invitation of First Methodist church to hold the meeting there. The First Methodist is more centrally located than the East school building, where First Evangelical United Brethren has been holding services since destruction of the church by fire last Dec. 1.

ARTISTS TO APPEAR IN SHELBY CONCERT

SHELBY—Rita Warner and the DeReszkes, prominent musicians, will appear here Thursday at the high school auditorium under the sponsorship of the Co-Operative club and the Business and Professional Women's club.

The group have been appearing at Carnegie Hall, Town Hall and Brooklyn Academy of Music where they have been acclaimed by audiences and critics.

Simeon DeReszke is violinist of the group and Helen DeReszke accompanies on the piano. Assisting artist with the DeRiszkes is Rita Warner, dramatic coloratura soprano of Chicago.

'JUNE-IN-JANUARY' MAY STAY AWHILE

Clearing skies and a gentle southerly breeze sent temperatures zooming into the 50s here today as Ohio's January "spring" went into its second day.

The weatherman, obviously puzzled, hesitantly forecast scattered showers this afternoon with the mercury soaring into the 60s in some parts of Ohio.

His rather feeble excuse for the June-in-January weather was that a stray warm air mass from south of the Mason-Dixon line had wandered north. But, he added hurriedly, a cold mass was on the way and lower temperatures are due tomorrow.

Only a three-degree range was recorded at Hayesville for the 24-hour period ended at 8 a. m. today, with a low of 43 degrees and a high of 46.

MARRIAGE LICENSES

MT GILEAD — Marriage licenses issued: Donald Glenn McPeek, 26, factory worker, Edison, and Ilo Marie Bell, 20, domestic, Edison; Albert Allen Ketchum jr., 20, mechanic, Coulterville, Ill., and Elizabeth Lillie Zolman, 22, domestic, Mt. MEETING PLANNED

MILLERSBURG — Plans for Holmes county's 1947 series of farmers' and community institutes will be mapped at a meeting here Thursday, S. N. McIntosh, county agent, said yesterday. The meeting will be held in the agricultural hall of the court house at 8 p. m.

2 HURT AS CAR SKIDS OFF ROAD

A Mansfield woman and an Akron man, injured in a traffic accident on State Route 13, north of Bellville, shortly before 10 a. m. today, were reported in good condition in General hospital at noon.

Injured were Fred Orr, 47, of Akron, who suffered neck injuries and a bruised side, and Mrs. Emma L. Burke, 285 North Diamond street.

X-ray examinations were being made to determine the extent of Mrs. Burke's injuries.

Highway patrolmen said the driver of the wrecked car, James Ward of Akron, reported that the auto skidded into a ditch.

SCHORR PROMOTED

GALION — William L. Schorr, nephew of Mrs. Frank Kinsey, of 418 South Union street, who has been traveling freight agent for the Erie railroad, has been advanced to the position of traveling passenger agent for the company with headquarters in Chicago.

GALION LEGION POST TO SPONSOR SQUAD

GALION — A permanent firing and burial squad will be organized here by the Scarbrough post, American Legion, Comdr. Fred Zoller announced at a post meeting last night.

The squad will have charge of military funerals for World War II comrades whose bodies will be brought to the United States from temporary interment overseas. The first bodies are expected to arrive next fall.

William Snyder, entertainment committee chairman, announced that the post will sponsor a dance Jan. 20. It also was announced that the Legion will sponsor an essay contest for hihg school students. The winner will receive a free trip to Washington, D. C.

Gilbert Hardware Store Purchased

NEW LONDON — The Gilbert Hardware store, owned and operated by F. G. Gilbert for the last 26 years, was sold yesterday to Ira Sutherland and Virgil Burner, New London businessmen.

Sutherland said the store will be remodeled, with an electrical department added. Gilbert was said to be leaving because of ill health.

STORE REMODELED

NEW LONDON—D. W. Gleason, New London shoe store owner and repairman who purchased the Charles Skeese holdings here several months ago, has begun a remodeling job which will add approximately 12 by 15 feet to his store.

AAF Wants 3,000 Planes Annually

OFFICERS SAY INDUSTRY MUST BE KEPT ALIVE

Recommendations Call For Research Program.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — The Army Air Forces today recommended production of 3,000 military airplanes a year as the minimum to support an aircraft industry prepared for wartime expansion.

The AAF said this was less than two weeks' production at the peak wartime rate of 96,000 planes a year reached in 1944. Present production is slightly below the desired 3,000 a year.

The essentials of air industrial preparedness were outlined by responsible officers as:

1. An adequate research and development program, engineered so that models could go quickly into mass production.

2. Maintenance of a healthy aircraft industry, capable of rapid expansion and supported by a program of continuing military production.

3. An industrial reserve of production facilities and resources stockpiled and ready to be called into use at the first threat of attack.

4. Joint preparedness plans between the air forces and industry to maintain our newest air weapons in a state of redness for volume production.

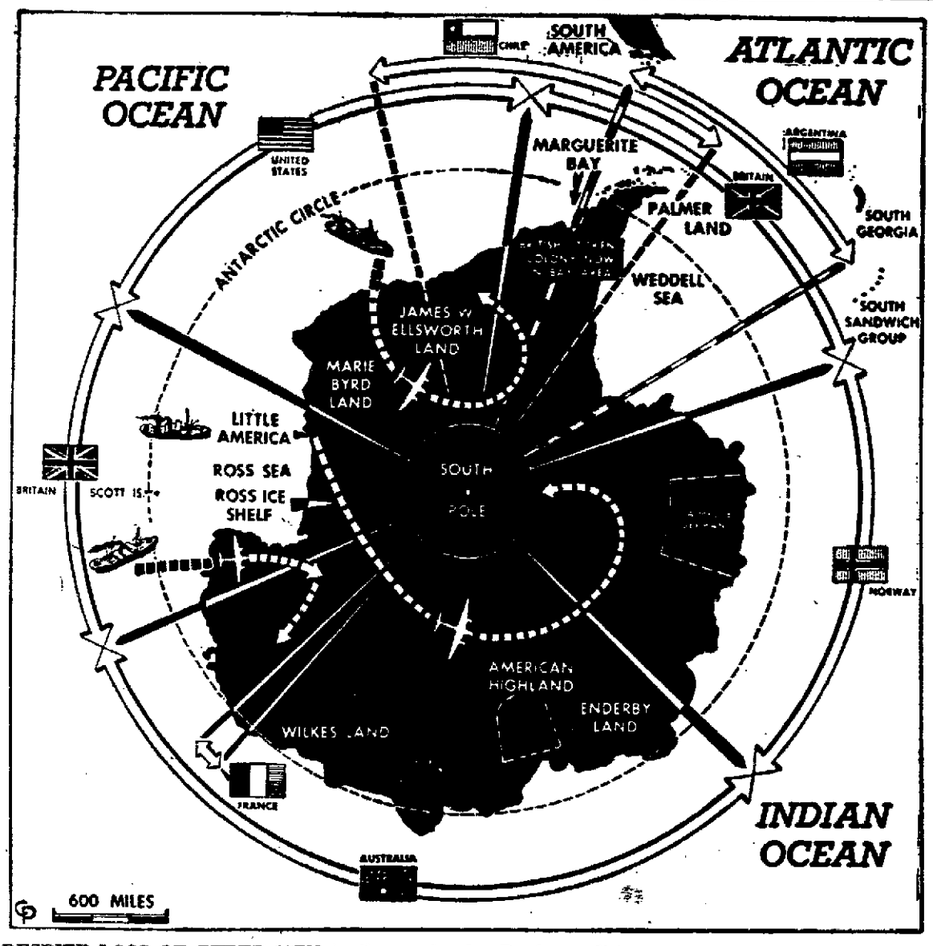
Prepares in Advance.

The air forces hope to save from six to 12 months on some air weapons by having production problems solved in advance. There will also be plans for close coordination with other mass production industries like the auto industry.

Nine out of 10 air frames produced during the war were made by pre-war aircraft manufacturers. It took the FordWillow Run plant three years to get into real production, but when it reached its peak it exceeded any other airplane frame plant in the country.

The automobile industry will be called upon to make plans for airplane engine production. In the peak year of the war, 1944, the auto industry delivered 60 per cent of the total horsepower output of aircraft engines.

The AAF said every plane and engine actually used in World War II, without exception, was designed prior to Pearl Harbor. The average cycle from design to production and combat testing is from five to seven years.



DESPITE LOSS OF THREE MEN in the crash of a Byrd expedition seaplane, plans are going forward for exploration of the still unknown areas of the antarctic, as shown on the map above. Dotted arrows show the sections which will be charted by a task force under the immediate command of Admiral Richard H. Cruson. The central group, based at Little America, will explore the polar region. The eastward unit will survey by air James W. Ellsworth Land and the western group will look over Wilkes Land near the Magnetic South Pole. The varied Antarctic areas claimed by different countries and explorers on the basis of previous expeditions are indicated by the outer arrows. The U. N. may decide conflicting claims.—(International)

Drive for Polio Funds Opens Wednesday In Richland County

The annual March of Dimes campaign will get under way Wednesday in Richland county with a view to topping the $5,850.68 raised in 1946.

Atty. H. W. McClellan will head the drive in the county. Working with him will be Atty. Marshall C. Moore, W. C. Mead, Lucille Bushey, Mrs. Katherine McMichael, H. G. Brunner, Sheriff Frank E. Robinson, Desmond Walker and Herb Golz of Shelby.

Posters, collection boxes, letters of solicitation to individuals and organizations, and a solicitation in the Mansfield theaters during the week of Jan. 24-30 will be used to spur the campaign, McClellan said.

"The Mansfield chapter's funds were seriously depleted in 1946," McClellan said. "If we are to rebuild them and pass last year's subscriptions, people must heed the appeal this year to "give double so that any person requiring aid regardless of race, creed or color, will receive the best medical care possible."

Collections are shared with the national foundation on a 50-50 basis.

The more than 25,000 cases of polio in 1946 wiped out the treasuries of 64 per cent of National Foundation chapters in epidemic areas, National headquarters announced.

SENATE OPENS AIR DISASTER INVESTIGATION

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Members of the civil aeronautics board were called before the senate commerce committee today for questioning about the increasing number of commercial airline disasters.

CAB officials were summoned as members of both the house and senate demanded sweeping investigations of national air safety policy, regulatory agencies and airline companies.

The demands were touched off by the crash of an Eastern Airline plane Sunday at Galax, Va. in which 18 persons were killed.

Sen. Brewster (R) Maine, declared that accidents are undermining public confidence in the air lines and resulting in financial difficulty for some companies.

Brewster said that many flights are being made with a passenger load far below the 70 per cent of capacity generally considered as necessary to pay expenses.

Today's informal executive hearing was originally scheduled to take up the problems of air transport but the number of recent air accidents, topped by the Virginia crash, was made the main subject.

Brewster said he wanted CAB members to explain how changes in their safety enforcement practices may figure in the number of accidents. He said:

"CAB now makes regulations and after an accident tries to find who is responsible—and it rarely finds that anyone is responsible."

The Maine senator declared that the air industry is failing to achieve the postwar successes it predicted before the senate commerce group last year.

Also up for discussion by CAB and the committee were the Bermuda agreement on international airlines and the "All-American Flag Line" proposal which failed to get to the senate floor last year through a tie vote in the committee.

Witmer to Head Gun Collectors

Herbert Witmer, of Ashland, was elected president of the Richland County Gun Collectors' association at its annual meeting in Mansfield last night.

Other officers named were Cy Hassinger, of Mansfield, vice president; Joe Toth, of Mansfield, secretary, and Foster Groff, of Pavonia, treasurer.

Members also saw motion pictures of combat and training, presented by the Mansfield army recruiting office.

FAVORS TAX CUT

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The commerce department's small business advisory committee called today for a flat 20 per cent cut in individual income taxes and for new labor laws based on the premise that "the public interest must be paramount."

KIDDIES TO SEE SAFETY MOVIES

Three short movies from RKO's well-known "This Is America" series, will be shown for grade school children at the Chamber of Commerce safety show Saturday at the Park theater.

The shows are: "Highway Mania," "Home, Safe Home," and "Formations," Joseph Prewitt, assistant C. of C. manager said.

Theater doors will open at 9:30 a. m. for the showing, scheduled for 10 a. m. Prewitt said that more than 1,000 children are expected to attend.

The show, second in a series of four sponsored on safety by the safety council of the Chamber of Commerce, wll also feature Kenny Hoffman's orchestra.

Members of the orchestra, as well as stage hands and projectionists, are offering their services for the show. The theater is also being donated.

Barclay on Bridge

WHEN playing a small slam contract in rubber bridge, safety is paramount. The declarer should exert himself to make sure of scoring the number of points already at stake, being willing to sacrifice all chance to make the extra trick if in doing so he increases the likelihood of making the contract. Most especially should he guard himself against the risk of suits being badly divided in the hands of the defenders. That applies to all his long suits, but with particular emphasis on the trumps.

Franklin E. (Buzz) Bailey former winner of the Eastern Championship, who played this slam hand successfully in a rubber game at New York's Union League Club, claims nothing for the bidding, but certainly did his stuff in negotiating the contract.

A kibitzer behind him watched him win the diamond 10 lead with the A and ruff the diamond 2 with the heart 9. He then expected to see the club A ruffed, a second diamond ruff by the heart J, then two top hearts led. That would have guarded against the diamonds being divided 4-2 and the spades 3-1 or 4-0, as two spades then could have been discarded on diamonds.

Buzz Bailey also guarded himself against four hearts to the Q-7 in one hand, as actually developed. The kibitzer's plan would have left West with two tricks for his heart Q-7 over the 6-2. But the declarer, after ruffing the second diamond, led the heart 2. Now, whether West took that or not, Mr. Bailey could rotect himself against that holding. If West used his Q, any return would be won in the South and a second trump led to dummy for a second diamond ruff. West actually ducked. The 10 won, a second diamond ruff was with the J, West discarding, then two top trumps left only the Q out. With this plan, there was no way for West to beat the contract.

MAIN HIGHWAY TRAFFIC JAMS BUSINESS AREA

and 21,080 were local. The peak hour accounted for 2,671 vehicles.

Most heavily traveled thoroughfare in Mansfield was Route 42 over Park avenue east, around Central park, and over South Main street and Lexington avenue.

Daily traffic volume on the route averaged from a maximum of 16,922 (one way) at Central park to a minimum of 4,768 on Lexington venue near Cook road. Pavement widths varied from only 24 feet on Lexington near Cook road to 60.71 at Central park.

As shown in Lichtenwalter's report, the range of average daily traffic volume on some of the city's principal streets included:

Park avenue east from city limits to Central park, from 8,396 to 16,810; Fourth street from Wayne to Sycamore, average of 10,595; South Main street from Central park to Lexington avenue, from 13,820 to 15,860; Park avenue west from Ausdale avenue to Central park, from 5,648 to 12,322; North Mulberry street, average of 10,102; Springmill street, average of 5,674; North Main street from Harker street to Central park, from 6,486 to 9,317; Lexington avenue from Cook road to South Main street, from 4,768 to 7,818; Bowman street, from 5,028 to 4,204; Newman street, average of 5,412; Fifth street, from 6,430 to 8,556; Sixth street, from 3,974 to 8,552; Orange street, average of 4,342; Wayne street, from 3,770 to 6,920; Marion avenue, average of 6,594.

Streets in the purely residential areas, serving smaller traffic volumes, are generally adequate, the report states.

CLERKS AGREE

LOS ANGELES—(U.P.)—AFL retail clerks went back to work today, opening 15,000 food stores that had been closed 13 days by a strike for higher wages. The clerks voted yesterday to accept an employers' offer of $55 for 40 hours a week.

HUSBAND QUESTIONED

ZANESVILLE—(U.P.)—Police today questioned Dan Haines, 27, after they discovered the battered body of his wife, Mrs. Myrtle Haines, 24.

WILLIAM SHAIEB, 26, tells a Detroit court the incredible story of how he went AWOL from his Army station in Scotland and came to Detroit because he heard his father was sick. According to authorities, he stowed away on a freighter, was apprehended and put in handcuffs. When the ship was nearing Florida, he broke the cuffs, jumped off and swam seven miles to shore. He then thumbed his way to Detroit.—International Soundphoto.

Doctor Gets Leave To Halt Hiccoughs

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Anna Mayer, 23-year-old blond singer, has been hiccoughing for 61 days because of her phrenic nerve.

She became so desperate and frightened that she asked President Truman to arrange a temporary leave for her physician from the Veterans Administration. The contralto has lost 25 pounds since she started hiccoughing two months ago. Her physician, Dr. Lester Samuels, is en route here from Alexandria, La., where he has been stationed.

1 FAULT PLUS ANOTHER ADD UP TO 10 DAYS

Thomas B. Jacob, 605 Cherry street, made two mistakes. He became impatient. And he ignored a stop sign. Result: 10 days in the county jail.

In July, Jacob's license to drive was suspended for six months on a charge of driving while under the influence of alcohol, police said.

Saturday, police stopped him for passing a stop sign — not only had he passed the sign—but he was driving eight days too soon.

Police booked him on a charge of driving while his license was suspended. He pleaded guilty today in municipal court and was sentenced to 10 days in the county jail.

Officers said that when they stopped Jacobs for ignoring the stop sign he told them that his "kids must have taken the license out of his wallet."

A check showed, however, that Jacob must have just been "kidding."

A charge of conversion by bailee, filed against Russell E. Shenberger, 273½ East First street, by Freda M. Pittenger, of the Peter Pan cleaners, was dismissed on grounds of insufficient evidence. Shenberger was accused of refusing to return clothing given to him at the cleaners by mistake.

Gerald Cates was fined $5 and costs on a disorderly conduct charge filed by Orenal Brown.

MOTHER AIDS IN DEATH CASE

HAMILTON —(AP)— A mother's insistence that her 12-year-old boy was not shot accidentally has led to the arrest of an alleged slayer and a statement that he killed the lad during a quarrel.

Butler county Sheriff Charles B. Walker reported last night that Palmer Sprague, 16, of neighboring Maud, had signed a statement that he fatally wounded Archie Gullett while the pair was hunting last Thanksgiving day.

Mrs. Chalmer Gullett, mother of the slain boy, had signed a warrant in juvenile court earlier in the day charging Sprague with murder.

The 16-year-old boy said in his statement, Walker reported, that the quarrel started when a shell was taken from his shotgun by the Gullett lad.

The younger boy was struck in the chest by a shotgun blast and it was believed at the time that the shooting was accidental.

Judge Oscar Leiser of juvenile court said Mrs. Gullett had refused to believe the shooting accidental and, at her insistence, authorities had been investigating the case for the past month.

LEGISLATORS SEND CATLETT GREETINGS

The Ohio legislature today passed a resolution expressing its wishes for the speedy recovery of Atty. John L. Catlett of Mansfield, one of its members, the Associated Press reported.

Introduced by Rep. John M. Kerr of Columbiana county, the resolution expressed the hope that:

"Representative Catlett soon may be able to take up his duties in all due haste in order that his vivacious personality, experience and prudence may add weight to our deliberations."

The resolution passed by a standing vote.

Catlett was stricken two weeks ago with a cerebral hemorrhage and is in General hospital.

'Hasty' Pay Claims Will Be Withdrawn

DETROIT — (U.P.) — A CIO attorney disclosed today that a "good number" of "hasty" portal-to-portal back pay suits involving millions of dollars will be withdrawn from federal district court here.

Nicholas J. Rothe said the United Auto Workers would withdraw its $6,000,000 claim against the Motor Products corporation, and that the United Steel Workers would recall an $800,000 suit against the Palmer Bee company.

Official Speaks on Service Insurance

A talk on national service life insurance will be given by Lee H. Tucker, regional insurance officer of the Veterans administration, at the Mansfield YMCA tomorrow at 5:30 p. m.

Tucker's talk will highlight the dinner meeting of the Mansfield-Ashland Life Underwriters association. A veteran of both World wars, Tucker left the service in World War II as a colonel. During his service he developed a savings promotion program. He has spent 18 years in the insurance business.

Republican Governor and Legislature

SINCE NOON yesterday Ohio has had a new governor. He is grey-haired Thomas J. Herbert who edged out his fellow Clevelander Frank J. Lausche in the Republican landslide last November. Herbert will have to do a good job to live up to the record of his predecessor.

Except for a few last-minute appointments which smacked strongly of old-time politics, Lausche had conducted himself in office with honor, integrity and good judgment.

Herbert has named what looks like a competent staff to help him equal or even improve upon Lausche's record. Foremost in the minds of Mansfielders, of course, is Murray D. Shaffer, the new director of highways, whose excellent work is widely known. Adjutant General Chester W. Goble is a military man remembered best as director of Ohio's wartime selective service.

Of particular interest here, too, because of the Ohio State reformatory, is the naming of Charles L. Sherwood as welfare director. Sherwood held this post before and is known as an authority on welfare problems. Agriculture Director Frank N. Farnsworth is a newcomer to political circles. He is best known for his big fruit farms near Waterville on the Maumee river.

The initial moves of Governor Herbert and his cabinet are going to be closely watched. Herbert has a Republican legislature, and blame or credit, whichever is due for how things go, will rest squarely with the Republican party and the elected leaders.

In his inaugural address Governor Herbert indicated the direction he expects his administration to take. Sensibly, he called for ending emergency taxes when the "emergency" is over. He wants a flexible tax structure and rigid economy. That certainly is laudable. But it, of course, it is what an administration accomplishes, rather than what it desires, that really counts.

Football Banquet Acclaimed 'Best Ever'

FIVE HUNDRED persons who ate, laughed and paid homage to Mansfield and Madison football players at the Coliseum last night agreed that the 11th annual News-Journal Football banquet was indeed "the best ever." To begin with, the crowd was on time. It quickly caught the spirit of the event. The food was hot, tasty and expertly served. Toastmaster R. J. Alander kept things moving at a lively pace.

There was very general satisfaction at the award of most-valuable-player trophies to Jack Cleckner of Madison and Ralph Majors of Mansfield who had been elected for the honor by their team-mates. Highly prized will be the gold footballs awarded by Sam Fox.

When N-J Sports Editor Fred Tharp introduced Indiana university's football coach, Bo McMillin, the evening reached its climax. McMillin's unassuming manner and drawling speech belied the power of his delivery. Every point, humorous or serious, was put across with clarity and definiteness.

The speaker kept the crowd chuckling but he did not fail to bring out that it is fighting spirit which makes a great football player and that academic preparation for the game of life is even more important than physical training for the gridiron.

With pleasing humility he was still able to relate many of the highlights of a career that has made him one of the outstanding football authorities in the United States. Colored movies of the Indiana-Nebraska game, with running comment by Mr. McMillin closed the evening.

Surprise event was the distribution of 500 News-Journal extras carrying complete news and picture coverage of the banquet. Each guest received a souvenir copy.

Not a part of the scheduled program but perhaps important to next year's grid season was an informal get-together afterwards with Mansfield and Madison coaches grouped earnestly around Mr. McMillin, applying him with questions and listening to his advice until it was time for his train to leave.

All in all there is no doubt about it—the 11th annual News-Journal Football banquet was the best yet and it already has inspired the committee in charge to begin planning for an even bigger affair at the close of the next football season.

One Mansfield Couple's Resolution

WHATEVER may become of New Year's resolutions in general, one that has just come to attention seems worthy of adoption by many people who probably realize that they have been negligent along the same line.

"We have resolved," said one Mansfield couple, "that during 1947 we will find time to see our friends more frequently, even if only for a short call."

The resolution resulted, it appears, from the incident of a friend's death, and realization that more than a year had passed without any closer contact than an exchange of Christmas greetings—through the mail.

Granting that there are many demands upon time—and that days and evenings seem filled to overflowing—it does appear that something has been lacost from an earlier practice of calling on friends, or spending an occasional evening in their home.

Anyhow, this "resolution" is mentioned in the hope that its intent will be given thought by some people who are "too busy" to give time to a friend—except on the day of the funeral.

Research Is Never-Ending Pursuit

TWO "men in white," Dr. Colin M. McLeod of New York university, and Dr. Michael Heidelberger of Columbia university, who have been engaged in research on the subject since 1941, have perfected a vaccine which is said to immunize against lobar pneumonia for six months or more.

This vaccine will be especially valuable in preventing epidemics of one deadly form of pneumonia in large groups of people who work together or who live in institutions. Further research is to be made in the hope of developing the substance so as to make it effective against other forms of pneumonia, also.

While the world was at war, research which may save thousands of valuable lives went steadily along.

According to a biologist, the ant is more intelligent than the whale—and, in any event, is more likely to find its way into the picnic basket.

A Columbia, S. C., hotel advertises, "No objection to Yankees"—but "No objection to Yankee money" would seem franker.

A LITTLE RABBIT SKIN TO WRAP BABY BUDGET IN

Truman's Budget Offers Small Hope of Cut In Federal Spending

By RAYMOND MOLEY

IN A YEAR like this, it may be assumed that the president's budget message, as well as the preliminary estimates of Republican leaders, are merely means of drawing the lines of a political conflict.

President Truman sticks to a high estimate of both income and outgo for the fiscal year 1947-48. John Taber of the house appropriations committee sees a cut to under $30,000,000,000.

Senator Robert Taft, an all but avowed candidate, cautiously takes his position in the middle. And so the battle begins.

The Truman prognosis is disappointing. Especially disappointing is the fact that his estimate of expenditures for the current year 1946-47 is higher than it was in August; and in August it was much higher than it was a year ago.

In his estimates for 1947-48, there is no real program of economy. The army estimates remain about the same. The navy is down about $1,000,000,000. The figure for general government, which includes most civilian employes, is down by only a hundred million. There are increases for nearly all the paternalistic services which marked New Deal budgets.

No one, including the Republicans, will quarrel with the estimates for national defense. The great unpredictables are there. We learned, to our sorrow, that military economies may bring vast and expensive consequences later.

There is, to be sure, an element of diplomatic pressure in high estimates for defense. A cut in defense expenditures would weaken the hands of diplomacy in the critical negotiations in the future for international disarmament.

We can venture some hope that Russia may be impressed by a public demonstration of our determination to remain militarily strong. But economy in this line next year is wholly speculative, and politicians like Senator Taft are taking no chances. They were burned once.

The president is glowing with confidence about continued business activity in 1948. If a recession comes, he says, it will be of short duration and would require no change in budget policy.

This runs quite contrary to the expectations of business forecasters, who have maintained that it is almost certain that agricultural income will be lower and that employment generally will decline. This means less purchasing power.

The amount realized for surplus war goods in the past year is not only disappointing; it is disgraceful. And the predictions of what will be received next year offer no hope of improvement.

A sadly neglected factor in the Truman message, as well as in Republican promises of personal income tax reductions, is the public debt. The Andrew Mellon policies brought about a reduction of four or more per cent in the debt for ten years.

Secretary Mellon accomplished this, in part, by being most conservative in his estimates of income, which enabled him to get congress to keep down expenditures. But Truman, on the other hand, is over-optimistic in estimating income and still leaves practically nothing for debt reduction.

A sound policy would set a mark at least one per cent a year for reduction of the debt. This would mean one billion for a bad year; two for a middling year; and three for a good year.

This year promises to be good, and yet neither Truman nor the Republicans offer much hope for any reduction. This is not prudent finance. It is political finance.

Farmer's Diary: "Some Recent Letters."

DEAR MR. BYERS:

In the mail yesterday I received from one of my listeners a clipping of your recent column entitled "Man With a Plan." Inasmuch as you invited comment, I am taking the liberty of calling your attention to a similar program already in operation near Smithville, Ohio. (An enclosure gives full data. Of which more later).

This sort of thing has a tremendous prospect. Speaking as one who grew up on a farm and who now is the father of children growing up in the city, I can say with considerable conviction that I believe the failure to keep boys and girls wholesomely busy is the chief reason for much of the delinquency in cities today.

It is not impossible to keep boys and girls occupied with wholesome activity in the city, but frequently parents are either too preoccupied with their own problems in the business world and their activities in the social world to devote the attention they should to keeping their children occupied with hobbies or suitable developmental assignments.

Many is the time I have seen 14, 15, and 16-year-old boys sitting on their front steps in city residential areas, leaning their chins in their hands and idling away their time. It is easy to imagine what thoughts run through these minds.

I shall be interested in hearing what comments you receive in response to your invitation to your readers to write their opinions of the "Man With a Plan."

Very truly yours.
JIM CHAPMAN,
Farm Director, WTAM,
National Broadcasting Co.,
Cleveland, O.

Thank you, Jim. This one came, too:

Dear Mr. Byers—I happen to be one of your readers, and also one of Jim Chapman's listeners to his Modern Farmer program over WTAM which is broadcasted from Cleveland at 6 o'clock every week day morning. To me, a farmer too, this program is the most important on the air and I am sure you will share a similar conviction after you have heard it several times.

Sincerely yours,
CARL D. PORTS

Thanks, Ports for introducing us. We'll set the alarm for 6 a. m.

Dear Mr. Byers—Yes, the young man has the right plan for a cooperative farm for boys, I say Amen.

Marshall Prefers Civilian Rule, Believes It Better Than Military

By DREW PEARSON

(Editor's Note — This is the third and last of Drew Pearson's penetrating personality sketches of the new secretary of state.)

* * *

WASHINGTON—To get a full insight into the character of the new secretary of state, it is necessary to know something of General Marshall's latest experiences in China.

Not many of his friends realize it, but Marshall for the most part enjoyed his tour of duty in China. He told visitors that it gave him time to think.

On the porch of his house in Nanking overlooking a flowery, walled-in garden, Marshall sat and philosophized about the Orient. In the distance he could see teeming, centuries-old Nanking and the tomb of China's great modern reformer, Sun Yat-Sen.

Last summer, Marshall spent an evening talking with Postmaster General Bob Hannegan and Assistant Secretary of War Stuart Symington, who had carried a highly confidential message to Marshall from President Truman telling him to prepare to succeed Jimmie Byrnes as secretary of state. What Marshall said that night was significant.

Going back over his life, he described his first tour of duty in the Philippines, even before World War I.

"I learned a lot from serving in the Philippines," Marshall said. "I learned that the worst civilian rule is preferable to the best military rule.

"The tragedy of China," he continued, "is that its cheapest commodity is human life. Everything else, clothes, food, land, raw materials—all are worth more than human life."

Moral Man Lags.

Marshall expressed his unreserved contempt for the Kuomintang, the oligarchy which kept Chiang Kai-shek in power. A loose confederation of warlords, honest scholars, and large-scale financial manipulators — money lenders — who traded in human misery, was the way he described it. He was particularly bitter about the custom of "cumshaw" or "shakedown" prevalent all over China. Hannegan had already seen how five bribes were necessary to permit a peasant to visit a relative in a Nanking jail.

Marshall outlined his own views on what China needed as, first, a complete restoration of civilian rule; second, a broad educational program so that more of the people of China could choose their path to a better world; third, a national health and welfare program combined with national sports.

"In the Philippines," he declared, "I saw how competitive sports developed fair-minded cooperation and team play. We taught the Filipinos tennis. They mastered it easily and proved that all races have great capabilities in physical development if given the opportunity. Health is the great wealth of a nation."

Finally, Marshall said, China needs moral emancipation. It is a tragedy, he said, that scientific man is 100 years ahead of moral man, and that science is 150 years ahead of industrial man in many parts of the world —particularly China.

"Perhaps," said Marshall, "even I who have been around the world haven't realized how completely the world has shriveled. We've got to help all the peoples of the world or suffer ourselves. It's not a question of producing for their consumption. It's a question of letting them have a portion of our own civilization."

Marshall and WAC.

It is easy to understand why General Marshall was shocked at the Chinese disregard for life, because, as chief of staff, he had great regard for the dignity of man. He was always thoughtful for those who served under him.

One evening he invited Brig. Gen. Claude Adams to dinner at his home at Fort Myer, and afterward Marshall suggested they go to the movies at the Fort Myer theater. The chief of staff was about to set out on foot when Gen. Adams said, "I've got a car here, with a WAC driver, and we might as well use it."

When they reached the theater, Gen. Marshall said to the driver, Pvt. Marcella Schaetz:

"After you park the car, come to the box office and there'll be a ticket for you."

WAC Marcella did as she was told. When she got to the box office, an usher said, "come this way, please," and led her to Gen. Marshall's box. She was only a private, but she saw the show from a place of honor between two generals, one being the chief of staff. She confesses she can't remember what the picture was about.

Pershing's Boy.

Despite age and the busy whirl of life, Marshall has always kept up his friendship with General Pershing, his old commander and the man who started him up the ladder to fame. Every Sunday before the war got too tense, Marshall went out to Walter Reed hospital to chat with his former chief. Pershing still believed he could win wars, and gave Marsall his opinion on various strategic problems. After each interview, Marshall rose and saluted.

"Thank you, General," he said.

"Thank you, General," was the reply.

Marshall Merry-Go-Round.

Marshall has a "steel-trap mind," can ask 20 newsmen what their questions are, then, without taking notes, remember each question and answer it . . . Marshall told visitors biggest change he would make in the state department is in the foreign service. He left no doubt that he is down on wealthy bureaucrats . . . Two groups which feared Marshall's appointment most were the British foreign office and the reactionary wing of the American foreign service.

The state department now has some streamlined, up-to-date diplomats, but the reactionary clique already has set wheels in motion to snarl up Marshall. They plan to keep him so busy with details of the forthcoming Moscow conference that he won't get a chance to take a real look at the department before going abroad. Once Marshall leaves for Moscow, he'll be embroiled for months, and the old guard won't have to worry. . . . One state department hand pleased with Marshall's appointment is Undersecretary Dean Acheson, who wanted to resign but will stay on for six months or more if Marshall gives him a free hand at cleaning out deadwood. Truman sent a special emissary on the day he appointed Marshall to plead with Acheson to remain . . . Acheson is looking forward to a Marshall-sponsored housecleaning. If it comes, he'll stay on.

Tax Reduction Will Present Difficulties.

WASHINGTON—President Truman issued a blunt challenge to the Republican party in his budget message which projects the first major-political issue with his opponents.

An analysis of his proposed $37,500,000,000 budget raises, in effect, this question for the American people:

Do they want a 20 per cent flat income tax reduction as proposed by Republicans, which will represent much more actual cash relief to the big taxpayers than to the average citizen, at the expense of cutting down various services which have become established functions of government?

The president indicated his awareness of such a choice by discussing at some length the additional services which the people have come to expect of our government and which contribute to the general prosperity.

It began, he pointed out, with the co-operation of government and private enterprise in opening of the West.

Today, he explained, there are new frontiers for such co-operative development—river-valley developments, air transport, new scientific discoveries and application of science and technology to "human progress" which last include so many recent as well as proposed reforms.

The president's budget was skinned close. It is a balanced budget, allowing a small $200 million surplus if Republicans go through with their plans to let wartime excise taxes expire, and a $1,800,000,000 surplus if they continue excise taxes and increase postal rates to wipe out the postal deficit as he recommended.

He came out flatly against income-tax reduction and elimination of excise taxes.

The proposed income-tax cut would cost between $3 and $4 billion and thus require that much to be lopped from the Truman budget. An examination of the budget reveals that such a reduction would be a difficult procedure, even though Republicans insist it could be done.

It would seem that some cutting would have to be done in many government services of the sort the president mentioned if there is to be a tax reduction. This is because it doesn't seem possible to shave off much in the big and essential items—interest on the public debt and tax refunds, both obligatory; national defense; international finance, including the British debt and other lending and relief projects, and veterans. These five items take up about four-fifths of the budget.

The social security, education and housing programs require $2.4 billion, as proposed by the president. Regulation and improvement of our transportation and communication systems and development of natural resources were allotted $2.6 billion.

The agricultural program, including price supports for farm products, conservation of farm land and rural electrification, were fixed at $1.4 billion. Somewhere among these the Republicans probably must find their tax reduction money, and all are services which the average citizen has come to expect.

In opposing tax reduction, the president pointed out, significantly, that the government had lost considerable revenue already through repeal of excess profits taxes.

These were relief for business and industry, and it is the heads of business and industry, particularly of the bigger sort, that will profit most from the proposed 20 per cent personal income tax cut.

The president also pointed out that millions of taxpayers of small incomes now have to pay high taxes and suggested "when the time comes for taxes to be reduced, these taxpayers have a high priority abong the claimants for tax relief."

Starvation Diet Prevails In Germany.

WASHINGTON—As the result of a column written shortly before Christmas urging that food packages be sent to Europe through the organization known as CARE, many letters have been received. They are almost all further evidence of the deep desire of Americans to help hungry Europe.

Several of the writers raise the question of aid to Germans in Germany. Perhaps the most remarkable of these letters comes from a German-Jewish refugee who fled the Hitler terror.

"While you did not stress the situation in Germany," the writer says, "I know that you are not one of those who tacitly or consciously exclude the German people from One World and the brotherhood of man. Unfortunately there are still so very many who believe that Germans must get along with 1550 calories (per day) until that distant day when the wounds of all other countries have been healed.

"Even the new merger of the American and British zones is chiefly based on those 1550 calories; and that in spite of all data medical science has gathered in the starvation experiments with conscientious objectors and (in spite of) official medical reports. Allied reports from Germany state that, unless rations are increased during this year, the damage will be irreparable. How can it be brought home to our people that we have been wasting our chance for a generation of better Germans ever since the occupation started?

"Here are a few choice items from the actual picture. In Berlin, the lowest card—Card V—entitles the holder to 1250 calories. It is called the Friedhofskarte (cemetery card). Meals are figured out on Briefwaagen-Mahlzeiten, which are little scales for weighing letters.

"From Hanover: Young people can hardly find any opportunity to learn a trade or useful work. Therefore, they drift into the black market, crime and immorality. The insane and those in mental hospitals, an ever increasing number, cannot be taken care of. Among the young veterans, who often started soldiering at the age of 16, a Lands-Knecht nihilism runs so strong that it bodes ill for the chances of peaceful life, even if all other Germans were bent on peace and cooperation.

"Most distressing is the fact that those who fought against Nazism do not get any aid unless they happen to have relations or close friends in this country. There are the surviving pacifists. Surely our American peace organization ought to help them. Yet painfully little is being done for them.

"There are political underground survivors who have reached the end of their endurance. One I know of, a woman, was in prison and in hiding for years. Her husband was executed by the Nazis. She lost her home and all her belongings in one of the bombing raids.

"Why is it that so many of our good people blindly trust in blueprints for tomorrow instead of following the old truth that the spark of hope and a better life is burning in individual human hearts and has to be kept alive there today?

"Must it be 'sloppy sentimentalism' to put human beings before coal, chemistry and the balance of power?"

The deep sense of obligation for one's fellow man that runs through this letter cannot be controverted by talk of "pampering" Germany. Revenge is a very, very costly emotion. Failure to live up to our minimum obligation in Germany is equivalent to revenge.

Does this happen at your house?

Does the milk you give your youngsters make them help themselves to more? Or isn't milk that popular with your children? For the sake of their health, it should be. And it CAN be—if it's Isaly's Homogenized Vitamin D Milk. Here's why . . .

Isaly's Homogenized Milk has a rich, creamy flavor that is just what children like. Because the cream is evenly distributed through the milk, every drop of Homogenized Milk is equally delicious and nourishing, right down to the bottom of the bottle. Children who previously would not drink ordinary milk now ask for "seconds" of Homogenized Milk at mealtimes. It's a favorite for after-school snacks, too.

Cereals are more appetizing with Homogenized Milk; hot drinks are smoother, more taste pleasing.

Try a quart or two of Isaly's Homogenized Vitamin D Milk tomorrow. Its creamy, wholesome flavor will soon make your family demand more. Available at your grocery, Isaly Dairy stores and from your neighborhood Isaly milkman.

Telephone 4217-6 if you would like delivery service to your doorstep.

Here is the difference betwen Homogenized Milk and ordinary milk - - -

In ordinary milk, the cream and milk are separate; the milk is not uniformly wholesome nor does each serving taste the same.

In Homogenized Milk, the cream is COMBINED with the milk, giving a smooth, creamy flavor. Every drop is forced through tiny openings at extremely high pressure. This produces nearly 10 times more cream particles and COMBINES them with the milk.

Thus, there's cream through the entire quart. The "cream line" is really at the bottom of the bottle because the milk and cream never separate. Every serving of Isaly's Homogenized Milk is equally nourishing, equally rich and delicious.

Look for the crisp, golden cellophane hood on every quart of Isaly's Homogenized Vitamin D Milk.
